Plans to conserve heating oil bared

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration has drawn up plans that could require homeowners who use heating oil to turn their thermostats down six degrees from where they were last year.

Other users of oil heat, including commercial and government buildings, could be forced to lower temperatures ten degrees or make equivalent fuel savings.

The plans are contained in the administration's proposal for rationing of heating oil, to be published today in the Federal Register.

A draft of the proposed regulations was obtained by The Associated Press and verified by administration sources.

The regulations also would guarantee certain high-priority users anywhere from 90 per cent of last year's fuel oil supply to 100 per cent of their needs this year.

Barring unforeseen complications, the regulations will take effect Jan. 1.

Under the plan, dealers would be legally required to impose the reductions upon the heating oil delivered to their customers. Purchasers would not need coupons to receive their rations.

The dealers would be required to calculate and distribute the correct amounts according to the formula set by the regulations.

Boys blamed for fatal derailment

WINDHAM, Ohio (AP)—Police say two small boys playing along the railroad tracks in the village of Windham were responsible for a freight train derailment which killed one man and caused damage estimated at more than $1 million.

Police said the two boys, aged 7 and 8, told their parents they opened the switch onto an industrial siding in this Portage County village, causing the 27-car freight train derailment Thursday.

The youngsters reportedly had seen an older boy rewarded a week earlier for locking the same switch for Erie Lackawanna railroad workers.

The two boys remained in the custody of their parents today while authorities considered what should be done.

The engineer, Raymond Wilcox, 39, of Meadville, Pa., died in the derailment, and another crewman, David Consider, 28, of Meadville, was injured seriously. Consider was listed in guarded condition Monday night at Robinson Memorial Hospital in Ravenna.

The parents brought the two boys in for a conference with investigators Saturday, police said.

Police were uncertain what action, if any, would be taken.

"What can you do with babies?" one official said. "We can't throw them in jail. There wasn't any malice intended. They'll probably get a good lecture, but I just don't know."

The FBI and railroad police also were investigating.

An Erie Lackawanna official said no decision has been made on whether charges will be filed.

Skyjackers make way to skeikdom

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Three Palestinian guerrillas forced a hijacked Dutch jumbo jet to set down briefly in the Persian Gulf sheikdom of Dubai today before resuming their erratic journey through the Middle East.

The hijackers had freed 244 passengers and eight stewardesses in Malta before ordering the craft to Dubai. After demanding fuel in that small country, they took off in the direction of Aden in South Yemen at the southern end of the Arabian Peninsula, the Dutch airline KLM reported.

The hijackers came to Dubai after Egypt, Lebanon, Kuwait, Saudi Arabia, Bahrain and Syria all refused to let them land in apparent disapproval of such extremist terrorist tactics.

They commandeered the plane Sunday night over Iraq and since then have forced it to fly around the eastern Mediterranean with stops in Syria, Cyprus, Libya, Malta and Dubai.

The hijackers apparently seized the plane in retaliation for what they claimed was a pro-Israeli policy of the Dutch government. The Netherlands officially disclaimed various forms of aid to Israel. According to unconfirmed reports in Amsterdam, the hijackers had radioed the Beirut flight tower that their demands had been met.

Aboard the plane with the hijackers when they flew out of Malta was A.W. Witholt, a vice president of KLM, and 9 or 10 crew members.

Sources reached in Dubai said the country's ruler, Sheikh Rashid Bin Said al-Maktum, first refused to give the plane permission to land. But the pilot told the airport that the plane was running out of fuel and the ruler relented and gave landing permission.

An Egyptian diplomat in Valletta, Malta, was to have joined Witholt and the KLM crew as a hostage on the trip to Dubai, but for an unexplained reason he did not board the plane when it took off.

Former Justice Whittaker dies

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Charles Evans Whittaker, whose desire to get away from the rigors of Kansas farm life led him to the law profession and eventually a seat on the U.S. Supreme Court, is dead at 72.

He entered St. Luke's hospital Nov. 21, and his death there on Monday was attributed to a "ruptured abdominal aneurism."

Whittaker was appointed to the high court in 1957 by another Kansan, President Dwight D. Eisenhower. He retired from the high court in 1962 because of physical exhaustion.

Whittaker was granted resigned status from the court in 1965, after his health had been restored.

Stock market's fast slide believed due to energy crisis

NEW YORK (AP) — Surrounded by what brokers describe as pervasive fears about the nation's energy outlook, the stock market continues to record some of its sharpest declines in recent history.

On Monday the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials fell 29.05 points to 824.95, its lowest level in two years. The singleday drop was the fifth sharpest on record, and followed other major drops of 24.24 points on Nov. 9 and 28.67 points on Nov. 19.

Midway through Monday's session, the Dow average was down more than 33 points. Had that held to the close, it would have exceeded all declines other than the Great Crash of 1929 and the day in 1962 when President John F. Kennedy and the steel industry had a confrontation over price increases.

However, brokers on the floor of the New York Stock Exchange said trading was orderly and calm. They said there was little excitement and no hysteria, adding that Monday's drop was nowhere near the percentage fall recorded in 1929.

"Years ago it would have been a panic with this sharp a drop," said George Gwaldo, for 40 years one of the exchange's supervisors on the floor. "Today it was just a regular selloff."

Volume was only moderately active at 19.83 million shares.

Since Oct. 26, when the market's recent slide began, analysts have attributed it mostly to oil shortages and energy fears.

Compounding energy fears Monday was the decision by the First National Bank of Chicago, the nation's 10th largest, to raise its prime rate to 9 3/4 per cent from 9 1/2 per cent.

Investors fear that energy shortages and high interest rates may contribute to a recession in 1974, brokers say.

'Blank' claimed due to error

Judge Sirica holds tapes under guard

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica is holding the subpoenaed White House tapes under guard, but he has given no indication whether he accepts an explanation for why 18 minutes of one of them is blank.

Rose Mary Woods, President Nixon's personal secretary, testified Monday that she thinks she accidentally pushed the wrong button on a recorder while she was listening to the tape of a June 20, 1972, meeting between the President and H. R. Haldeman.

Assistant special prosecutor Jill Volner told the court that all discussion of the Watergate break-in, which had occurred three days before, apparently took place during the 18-minute period, obliterated on the tape by a steady hum.

Miss Woods testified at a hearing called by Sirica to determine what had happened to the tapes of the meeting between the President and Haldeman, then White House chief of staff.

She said she had spent long hours at Camp David, the President's Maryland mountain retreat, on the weekend of Sept. 29 and 30, transcribing subpoenaed tapes.

"I did work hard over that whole long weekend ... I was exhausted," she said.

On Monday, Oct. 1, she was back in her office in the White House, where she had several hours more work to do on the tapes plus other matters that had piled up over the weekend.

She said she was working on the June 20 tape when her telephone rang. She said she had to reach way behind her to answer it and when she did she "pushed the record button, obviously," rather than the stop button, which was right next to it on the machine.

In addition, Miss Woods said she would have had to have kept her foot on the pedal which enabled her to move the tape backward or forward while she transcribed it.

"After I turned from the telephone — being someone who has tried to do a good job — I almost panicked," she said when she realized that the record button was depressed.

She checked the tape and found that after a mention by Haldeman of Ely, Nev., where Mrs. Nixon was born, conversation was obliterated by what she called a shrill noise.

Within five minutes Miss Woods went to the President.

"I told the President I was afraid I had caused a gap and he said it was no problem because it was not a subpoenaed tape," she testified.

One of the nine tapes subpoenaed on July 23, by then-special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox, was of a meeting between 10:30 a.m. and noon on June 20, involving the President, Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman, the domestic affairs adviser.

But in an analysis accompanying the tapes delivered to Sirica Monday, the White House said there was no such meeting. The White House said the President met with Ehrlichman and then with Haldeman, not with both together.

In other Watergate-related developments:

—The Senate Watergate committee arranged to vote on whether to suspend

its public hearings indefinitely. Chief counsel Samuel Dash said investigators needed more time to explore new leads, but a source close to the panel's Republican minority said

Dash's staff had run out of hard evidence.

Nixon to publish some tax returns

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has promised six senators to open some of his federal income tax returns to public review this week, says Sen. J. Bennett Johnston Jr.

The Louisiana Democrat said Nixon disclosed his intention at a meeting Monday night with four Democratic and two Republican senators, including Johnston.

A White House spokesman confirmed that Nixon mentioned the subject during the session, and said he will "have something to say about it in the coming days."

No president has ever made such a disclosure and Johnston said Nixon expressed the hope his move would not set precedents.

Johnston said the President indicated he would provide copies of his actual returns and not a summary. "He said these would vindicate his position," Johnston said.

In a news conference with The Associated Press Managing Editors Association on Nov. 17 the President acknowledged the truth of reports that he paid "nominal amounts" in federal taxes in 1970 and 1971 because he had claimed a $500,000 tax exemption on the donation of his vice presidential papers to the government.

Johnston said the President did not say which years would be covered by his disclosure or how or precisely when that disclosure would be made.

Johnston, and Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., and William B. Saxbe, R-Ohio, said the discussion was friendly and dwelt mainly on such issues as the Middle East and the energy crisis, with a smaller amount of time devoted to the Watergate scandals.

"We talked about football for what I thought was an inordinately long period of time," Johnston said.

But he said he believed that the fact that the President was willing to discuss Watergate but instead was

Senate schedules vote today on Gerald Ford nomination

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate is close to a vote on President Nixon's nomination of House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford as vice president.

A roll call vote was set for late afternoon, with only one senator having announced he would vote against confirmation of the veteran Michigan congressman.

Ford was nominated by President Nixon Oct. 12 to replace Spiro T. Agnew, who resigned after pleading no contest to a charge of income tax evasion.

The nomination was the first under the 25th Amendment adopted in 1967. It provides that if the office of vice president becomes vacant, a successor shall be nominated by the president subject to confirmation by majority vote of the Senate and the House.

The House is expected to vote on Ford's nomination late next week. Its Judiciary Committee completed six days of hearings Monday.

asked mainly about other things "was perhaps indicative of the fact he is beginning to come out of the woods on that particular problem."

Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., refused to comment on the session. Also attending but not immediately reached were Sens. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb., and Gale W. McGee, D-Wyo.

Speed limit cut delayed

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Transportation Director J. Phillip Richley predicted that Ohio could not reduce speed limits before January and said gas rationing could cost the state up to $70 million annually.

Richley, here for public hearings on local transportation needs, said the average driver consumes 16 gallons of gasoline per week. This excludes business and industrial trips.

He said limiting consumption to 15 gallons would cost the state $11.5 million in tax loss annually and $70 million if drivers are limited to 10 gallons per week.

Richley said Gov. John Gilligan plans to refer President Nixon's request for reduced speed limits to the Ohio Legislature but not until January. The earliest the plan could be acted upon would be in late January, he said.

Richley also said the speeds could not be enforced before all the speed limit signs are changed. He estimated that would take an additional 15-20 days.

Community banquet to salute 'No. 1' Blue Lions

JIMMY CRUM

A community appreciation banquet, designed to salute the 1973 Washington C.H. Blue Lions football team, will be held at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 12, in the Mahan Building on the Fairground.

The special banquet, sponsored by the Washington C.H. Blue Lion football boosters club, promises to be unusually appealing for sports fans as the Rev. Father Richard J. Connelly, pastor of St. Colman's Catholic Church in Washington C.H. and a nationally-known speaker, will serve as toastmaster, and Jimmy Crum, WLWC-TV 4 sports director, will be the featured speaker. The public is invited.

A donation of $6 per person will be asked and the ticket agents will be announced by the booster club on Wednesday.

TWO BANQUETS have been scheduled to honor the historic Washington C.H. football team. The appreciation banquet shouldn't be confused with the regular Washington C.H. football banquet which will be held Tuesday, Dec. 4 at Washington Senior High School.

Along with all this fanfare, the boosters are asking merchants in downtown Washington C.H. to recognize the week of Dec. 5-12 as "Blue Lion Week" through window displays or other tokens of appreciation. Washington C.H. City Council officially will designate Dec. 5-12 as "Blue Lion Week" at its next regular meeting.

Father Connelly and Crum will spice the banquet program, but the highlight will be the salute to members of the Washington C.H. football team. The Lions became the winningest team in Washington C.H.'s history with a perfect 10-0 record, captured a mythical Class AA state football championship in balloting by a panel of Associated Press sportswriters and broadcasters, and won the South Central Ohio League title, the school's first since the 1968 season.

BOTH Father Connelly and Crum are veritable fountains of sports background and statistics.

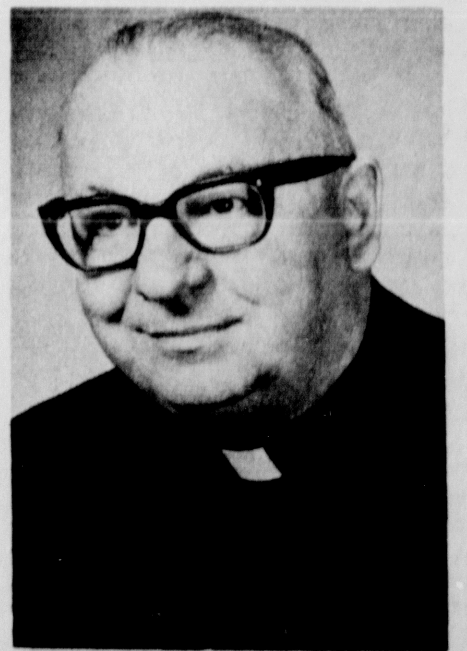

The amiable Father Connelly, pastor of St. Colman's for the past 21 years, is chaplain of the Cincinnati Bengals. He is one of the most popular after-dinner speakers hereabouts and has appeared at gatherings from coast to coast, frequently as national chaplain of both the Elks Lodge and American Legion. Always generous with his time, there are few organizations here he has not addressed.

His interest in civic affairs always has been deep, but he carefully avoids active participation.

Crum, who joined WLWC-TV in 1953, has been active in covering a variety of outdoor sporting activities aside from covering organized team events. For 14 consecutive seasons, he has called the play-by-play of the Ohio State basketball games on TV-4, and his coverage of Ohio high school basketball tournaments is carried on a statewide network.

The "TV-4 Sports Fund for Recreation Unlimited" was initiated by Crum in 1965 and in nine years has raised more than $120,000 to send physically handicapped and mentally retarded youngsters to summer camps.

A popular emcee for community and sporting events outside TV-4, Crum is part of the play-by-play team for the Cincinnati Bengals radio network and is seen weeknights on TV-4's newscasts.

United cuts 100 flights

WASHINGTON (AP) — United Air Lines announced today it is eliminating more than 100 flights in January and laying off at least 950 employees immediately because of the fuel shortage.

The cutbacks will put United about 5.5 per cent below its 1972 fuel usage level, United President Edward E. Carlson said. But, he said, the cutbacks are not enough to meet the new fuel allocation levels announced by President Nixon Sunday night.

Under the program announced by Nixon, all airlines must cut back their fuel usage by 15 per cent.

Carlson said United had not yet decided what flights would be eliminated. He said the figure of 100 flights was arrived at by determining how much aircraft flying time would have to be eliminated in order to get below 1972 fuel levels.

Albert Corsi named to resources position

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Q. Albert Corsi, a Cleveland attorney, has been named deputy director of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources.

Corsi, 40, was picked Monday by Gov. John J. Gilligan to replace William R. White, who resigned in August.

Swank raps food reserve push

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — People who want to build a food reserve in this country are more concerned about rising prices than the possibility of a food shortage, delegates to the annual Ohio Farm Bureau meeting were told today.

C. William Swank, the organization's executive vice president, said efforts to build a food reserve "can only be market depressing and can only comfort an imaginary fear."

He said Americans never have been hungry and never will be "if they will only spend some of their earnings for food."

"A cheap food policy has never been an American right and should never become one," Swank declared.

Swank spoke at the opening session on the second day of the three-day convention.

Other speakers scheduled today included Ohio Senate President Pro Tem Theodore M. Gray, House Speaker A.G. Lancione and Lance Marston, di-

Schultz urges U.S. oil 'independence'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Treasury George P. Schultz says the United States will be better off if it plans its energy policy on the assumption it will never again receive oil from the Arab countries.

Although Arab oil would help in meeting both present and future energy needs, the United States can and should learn to get along without it, Schultz said.

"We have to have a program geared in the long run so others won't have us by the throat," he told reporters Monday. "If we don't take a lesson from this ... we're just crazy."

Schultz said the United States can avoid major economic damage if it diverts the energy shortage toward nonessential uses.

He indicated there probably would be some increased unemployment as a result of the energy shortages, but said private forecasts of an 8 per cent unemployment rate were too high.

He also indicated he felt the stock market, which declined 29 points Monday, was overreacting, saying it "seems to have gone wild on the subject."

Schultz said he didn't have any

Most Ohio service stations to observe Sunday closing

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Motorists apparently will be staying closer to home Sunday. A spot check of Ohio service stations shows most will comply with the President's request for a voluntary ban on Sunday gasoline sales.

Some stations say they will defy the Sunday closing appeal, however.

"I don't plan to close on Sundays," one Cincinnati station owner said. "I've got two stations and Nixon's hit me hard."

"I'm bitter. I'm in business to make money, and I plan to sell all the gas I'm allocated."

A Cleveland station owner said he won't close unless other stations close. Using parttime workers on Saturday night and Sunday means he can close earlier on other nights, he said.

But several stations said they already were closing early, and a ban on Sunday sales will relieve pressure on their limited supplies.

In Columbus, station owner Howard Johnson said he's been closing his station on Sundays for about a month "so I would have enough fuel to pump the other six days."

"I wouldn't be able to stay open seven days a week anyway," Johnson said.

Most station owners said the closing won't cut gasoline sales drastically, but shift it to Saturdays and Mondays.

But James V. Cresente, executive director of the Northern Ohio Petroleum Retailers Association, said the closing would help eliminate unnecessary driving.

"This plan is far better than having gasoline rationing," said Cresente, who operated a gas station during World War II rationing days. "Thirty years ago that plan was a mess and it would be even worse today because more drivers are on the road."

"We're in trouble if this doesn't work," said one Cincinnati-area station manager. "But I guess Nixon's got to try something."

"Rationing has to be the next step if this doesn't work," he said.

Harold Mechling, division manager for Standard Oil Co. of Ohio company-owned gas stations, said Sohio hasn't made a decision on whether to close its stations Sunday. But he said Sunday closings are "bound to" reduce consumption.

"People won't go anywhere where they can't make it there and back on one tank," he said.

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Skylab 3's astronauts are readying instruments aboard the orbiting laboratory for the first of some 50 earth resources studies covering many areas of the globe.

A major goal of a resources survey today on a pass extending from the Colorado Rockies to the Mississippi delta is to begin charting winter snow cover in the Rockies to determine how well a space study of this type can be used to assess water runoff in the spring.

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. (AP) — Flight controllers have made the last scheduled course change for Pioneer 10, opening the way for closeup color pictures of Jupiter and a sequence of delicate experiments probing the planet's mysterious nature.

By firing the spacecraft's small thrusters Monday, controllers at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Ames Research Center aligned the spacecraft for the best possible transmission of long-awaited closeup pictures of the giant planet, NASA spokesman Pete Waller said.

rector of the U.S. Interior Department's Office of Land Use and Water Planning.

On Wednesday, delegates will vote on 500 resolutions which will provide guidelines for the Farm Bureau during the coming year.

Swank told the delegates the federal government is holding discussions with leaders of other nations to determine their needs for American grain exports.

Swank said this was a "very positive step in the right direction," since it will permit American agriculture to plan accordingly.

Swank said passage of state Issue 1 by voters earlier this month was a "mandate to the legislature to pass the right kind of laws."

The constitutional amendment calls for appraising farmland for taxation on its use value rather than its potential value.

Gov. John Gilligan, addressing the convention Monday, said passage of the specific new proposals to recommend for easing the energy shortage, saying he was "not sounding off until I have a better view."

He has said in the past that allowing prices to rise would be one good way of reducing consumption, but he noted that Cost of Living Council Director John T. Dunlop is strongly opposed to this approach.

He said the administration has stepped up study of a proposed excess profits tax that would absorb windfall profits, that industries, such as the petroleum industry, might reap from the energy crisis. He said other proposals were under study as well.

Schultz returned Monday from what he called a productive meeting in Tours, France, of finance officials from West Germany, Great Britain, Japan, France and the United States to discuss world monetary reform.

He said the world energy crisis also was discussed but that there was no talk of a worldwide recession.

He said the United States made clear its opinion that the U.S. dollar was now properly valued in relation to other currencies.

Arabs agree to continue oil embargo

ALGIERS (AP) — Leaders at the Arab summit conference generally agree the oil weapon should continue to be used and should be expanded if necessary against countries supporting Israel, informants said today.

But the Arab oil exporters were asked to make special efforts to exempt France and other "friendly countries" from the bans and cutbacks.

The sources said the Arab oil states are expected to tighten the embargo against the United States and the Netherlands but to ease restrictions on Japan because of Tokyo's recent endorsement of the Arab call for Israeli withdrawal from all occupied territory.

The sources said the Arab leaders also are agreed in principle that peace talks with Israel should be held in three stages. The talks are expected to start next month in Geneva.

In the first stage only Egypt and Syria would take part on the Arab side and the only subject discussed would be Israel's withdrawal to positions held at the time of the first cease-fire, on Oct. 22.

After that issue is resolved, representatives of Jordan, Lebanon and the Palestinians would come to the conference table. If the participants in this second stage agreed on a comprehensive peace settlement, all or most of the other Arab states would join for a third round to endorse the settlement.

A source said that if this fails to bring peace, the Arabs will have a detailed, secret plan for another war, including a third front with a coalition of armies striking across the Jordan River.

Recommendations submitted to the Arab chiefs of state by their foreign ministers stressed that an acceptable settlement must include the "complete and total liberation of the territories occupied during the 1967 aggression."

Commissioners review office equipment bids

The Fayette County Board of Commissioners Tuesday morning reviewed bids submitted for the purchase of new office equipment for the Fayette County Sheriff's Department, but tabled action on the matter for further study.

A bid submitted by the Harry L. Morgan Co., of Columbus, totaling $1,128.83 was the lowest of the five bids reviewed by the board.

The specifications, prepared by Sheriff Donald L. Thompson for the new addition at the department, called for three desks, three swivel chairs, four single-arm chairs, two office-type benches and four filing cabinets.

Other bids submitted were Ohio Penal Institute, Columbus, $1,146; Watson Office Supply and Equipment, Washington C.H., $1,326; Wasserstrom Co., Columbus, $1,494.94; and Patton's Office Supplies, Washington C.H., $1,663.80.

Commissioners Monday afternoon reviewed profiles prepared by Fayette County Charles P. Wagner concerning the proposed improvement on the Persinger Ditch project.

Reconstruction and channelization of the Persinger Ditch, located on CCC Highway-W and affecting eight landowners, will cost $6,644.55, according to Wagner's estimates.

The board scheduled the final public hearing on the Persinger Ditch project for 10 a.m. Monday, Dec. 31 in the commissioners office. The project was petitioned by Dr. J.H. Persinger.

Eisenhower letter still around?

WASHINGTON (AP) — A letter that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower reportedly wrote years ago to Gen. George C. Marshall seeking advice on a possible divorce from his wife Mamie may still exist, claims a former aide to the late President Harry S. Truman.

Retired Army Maj. Gen. Harry Vaughan, who was Truman's top White House military adviser, said that Truman sent the letter to Marshall for Marshall's private files and to keep it out of the hands of Eisenhower's political opponents.

Vaughan denied a published account that Truman had destroyed both Eisenhower's letter and Marshall's reply.

Eisenhower, who at the time was World War II supreme allied commander, reportedly informed Marshall that he was considering divorcing Mamie to marry Kay Summersby, a British woman assigned to drive him around London during the war.

"Gen. Eisenhower asked Gen. Marshall if he thought a divorce would hurt his military career," said Vaughan Monday in an interview. "Marshall told him it certainly would, and would be a very stupid thing to do."

Marshall at the time was Army chief of staff. He later became secretary of state. According to Vaughan, the Eisenhower-Marshall letters wound up in Pentagon files. Marshall died in 1959.

Vaughan said when Eisenhower was running for the presidency in 1952, rumors of the letters leaked out. He said those supporting Sen. Robert A. Taft, Eisenhower's opponent for the GOP nomination, "wanted to get hold of the letters and have them published."

Vaughan said Truman, who was then president, interceded and returned the letters to Marshall. Vaughan said he could personally confirm that the letters existed because "I saw them."

The letters, said Vaughan, probably still exist among Marshall's other papers — possibly at the Marshall Research Library at the Virginia Military Institute in Lexington, Va.

The alleged exchange of letters was made public last week when newspapers published excerpts from "Plain Speaking," a new book about Truman by Merle Miller.

Thunderstorms pound nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Thunderstorms crackled across the South and parts of the Midwest today, and fog and drizzle dampened much of the midcontinent as unseasonable mildness persisted from the Plains to the Atlantic.

A tornado watch was in effect before dawn for the lower Mississippi Valley and parts of the South.

Severe thunderstorms with hail and damaging winds struck the region Monday afternoon and evening. At least 10 tornadoes were sighted in Mississippi and Alabama, and some injuries were reported. Homes, trailers and farm buildings were damaged extensively.

Thunderstorms erupted before dawn in Louisiana, Mississippi, eastern Arkansas, Tennessee, Kentucky and in southern Indiana and Ohio.

Fog and drizzle fanned out over the midcontinent from Missouri to Minnesota and eastward into the Great Lakes region and the eastern Ohio Valley. Other showers washed the Pacific Northwest, west Texas, northwestern Florida and areas along the north Atlantic Coast.

Snow sifted through the Rockies, and travel advisories were issued for parts of Arizona, New Mexico and Colorado. Salt Lake City, Denver and Cheyenne, Wyo., each measured an inch of snow.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 12 at Rawlins, Wyo., to 79 at New Orleans, La.

Stock prices down again

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market settled still lower today after its sharp downward movement Monday, amid what analysts described as continuing investor worries about the impact of the nation's energy problems on business and the economy.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was down 3.53 to 821.42. Advances and declines were close to even on the New York Stock Exchange.

The market made a brief attempt at a rally in early trading, but what moderate gains it managed had mostly evaporated by noon. Analysts said they saw little immediate chance for any strong upward swing.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index at noon was down 0.57 at 93.10, while the NYSE index was down .17 at 51.34.

Big Board prices included Howard Johnson, up 1/4 to 11 1/2; American Motors, up 3/4 to 8 3/4; CNA Financial, up 1/2 to 10 3/4; RCA, down 1/4 to 18 3/4; Sony, up 3/4 to 29 3/4; and Dow Chemical, up 3/4 to 49.

Frequent periods of showers and thundershowers appear on the weather horizon in Ohio for the next couple of days, before tapering off Wednesday.

The National Weather Service said the showers and thundershowers will be widespread over the entire state with locally heavy amounts at times.

Warm moist air off the Gulf of Mexico covers the entire state and afternoon readings are expected to reach record or near record temperatures. Upper 60 and 70s will be common in the southern counties and the 60s over the remainder of the state.

Readings tonight will lower into the 40s and 50s and climb into the 50s and some 60s on Wednesday as cooler air spread into Ohio.

Unseasonably warm temperatures were reported over most of the state Monday night and early Tuesday, readings ranging from the upper 40s in the extreme northwestern counties to the 50s and 60s elsewhere. A heavy blanket of clouds, some fog and a few showers and thundershowers were also reported.

There will be a chance of rain daily in Ohio Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Highs all three days will be in the 40s with lows in the upper 20s and 30s.

Negotiations halted by Cincinnati police

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Wage negotiations broke off Monday between the Queen City Lodge 69, Fraternal Order of Police and the bargaining team for the city.

Elmer Dunaway, FOP president, said he asked for a meeting with City Manager E. Robert Turner after turning down the city's offer of $810 plus fringe benefits in a police wage boost. He said police want a $1,000 raise across the board.

Bad law permits it

One of the reports President Nixon confirmed in his exchange at the Associated Press Managing Editors convention was that in 1970 and 1971 he paid only "nominal" income taxes. As had been revealed earlier, this was achieved by donating his vice presidential papers to the public and then taking deductions based on a valuation of more than half a million dollars.

This is not mentioned to place Mr. Nixon in an unfavorable light, but because the episode so dramatically calls attention to the general problem of tax inequities. One is reminded that a president at $200,000 a year, or a business executive with two or three times this annual income, may pay at a rate less than that for million of wage earners.

Those who do this are, for the most part, entirely within the law. And there, really, is the rub: it's not that millionaires are illegally evading taxes, but that they are able to use the law to avoid taxes on huge amounts of income. It is the inequities permitted by the law that understandably gall an increasing number of taxpayers. If Congress is really interested in being responsive to the popular will, it should change the law to prevent abuse of tax shelters.

A trenchant statement of this view was made before a congressional committee by Prof. Stanley S. Surrey of Harvard University. There must be reform, he said, "to restore fundamental morality to the tax system by ending the cynical, immoral way the tax game is played today by those with money and knowledgeable advisers."

The sanctimonious claim that "it's all perfectly legal" need not be accepted as the last word on the subject. If gross tax inequities are "perfectly legal," then the law clearly needs changing.

Nixon and impeachment

Confronted with a particularly esoteric doctrine, one of the Fathers of the Christian Church observed "Credo quia impossibile est" — "I believe because it is impossible."

I have just about reached the same conclusion with respect to President Nixon's adventures with Watergate, the tapes, the "Saturday Night Massacre," Spiro Agnew, the milk scandal, IT&T, the "great grain robbery" and other assorted matters.

This is not politics; it is a Marx Brothers movie where every time you open a broom closet out come a dozen people and an elephant.

If you simply add these up, the suspicion that Mr. Nixon was in it up to his ears is almost inescapable. There remains the nagging doubt: could anybody with his track record be so egregiously stupid?

AS WAS NOTED here months ago, Mr. Nixon's fall-back position from criminal involvement, i.e., obstruction of justice, was a plea of incompetence. That is, his answer to his critics had to be — in defense of his honor — "I knew nothing about what subordinates were doing in my name."

This is pretty lame and in my judgment adequate grounds for impeachment: the best evidence indicates that the authors of the Constitution considered stupidity ("malad-ministration" was Madison's word) a "High Crime and Misdemeanor."

In other words, you didn't have to catch the President stealing to impeach him: being a bum President was a perfectly adequate basis for action.

Yet the Marx Brothers character of the scenario somehow throws me off when it comes to evaluating Mr. Nixon's honesty in denying that he is a "crook." I tend to believe him: "Credo quia impossibile est."

And because my professional career is that of a historian, I have encountered a number of situations in which the "truth" seemed "impossible."

Take the Japanese decision to attack Pearl Harbor as a case in point. The Japanese in 1941 had a finely trained diplomatic apparatus with numerous authorities on the United States.

"Down, boy."

However, they made a total miscalculation.

The Japanese were determined to invade French Indochina, Malaya and the Dutch East Indies (now Indonesia). As they looked at their maps, they realized that the Philippines and the U.S. Pacific Fleet were ideally situated to hit their lines of communication. Their intelligence also reported that American officials had been working closely with the Australians, British and Dutch on contingency plans.

"If" — they reasoned — "we move southwest, Roosevelt will push a button on his desk and we will be hit on the flank."

Now a bright 16-year-old American in 1941 knew two things:

First, Congress could not have cared less about the fate of French, Dutch and British colonies in the Far East. If GDR had proposed war on this basis, he would have been lucky to get 100 votes.

Second, the last thing the President wanted was to get embroiled in the Pacific — he was busy trying to get us into a war with Nazi Germany and not doing very well at that either.

But the Japanese had no grasp of American political dynamics and soaked Pearl Harbor and the Philippines, getting FDR into a war he didn't want. And then Adolf Hitler, for no logical reason, declared war on the

Tax returns boost credit

By DEAN SCHOTT
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Many Ohio personal taxpayers will share in $21 million of savings on their 1973 state income tax returns.

The savings will represent the credit given to Ohioans filing joint returns. The credit will not apply to single returns.

Stan Spaulding, spokesman for the Ohio Department of Taxation, said the credit, like the graduated income tax, will be based on the ability to pay.

"If your taxable income for the year is $10,000 or less and your tax liability is $100, you will pay 20 per cent less," Spaulding said. "Your tax payment will then be $80."

He said the tax credit will be less for persons who make more. The credit for those with a taxable income between $10,000 and $20,000 will be 12 per cent. Over $20,000, the credit will be 5 per cent.

Spaulding said the 110th General Assembly approved the credit system to eliminate an inequity in the two-year-old state income tax.

In 1972, first year of the tax, a joint return was treated as if it were individual returns and received no tax break.

State law required that if a couple filed a joint federal return, they must file a joint state return. The same held true if they filed a single federal return. It had to be followed by a single state return.

Numerous persons filed state and federal court suits challenging the provisions. They contended that the state law discriminated against couples.

The courts never issued a definitive ruling. But state legislators felt voter pressure and passed tax credit legislation.

Spaulding said application of the tax credit on 1973 returns will mean a loss of $21 million in state revenues, but it will end up in the taxpayer's pocketbook. Total take for the 1973 tax is expected to reach $418 million.

He said the credit system is the only major change in the state income tax for 1973.

Taxpayers can look forward to another change in 1974. Voters in the Nov. 6 election approved a constitutional amendment lifting the 1912 limit of $3,000 in exemptions on the state tax.

The amendment will be effective in 1974 and will mean a savings of $2 million to taxpayers.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Wife's upset; Husband is 31, still wets himself

DEAR ABBY: I have never seen a problem like mine in your column. Would you believe my husband is 31 and he still wets himself? Not only in bed, but while he's awake.

Last evening, after supper he went next door to talk to a neighbor and have a few beers, and when he came home (about 9:30 p.m.) his pants were soaked! I asked him how that happened, and he said he didn't know. (He wasn't even embarrassed.)

He even denies that he wets himself. He can be sitting in the living room watching TV, and when he gets up, the chair is soaked. I have scrubbed that chair more times than I can count. Our mattress is ruined. I know it's the beer, but he won't admit it and he won't give it up.

He had a physical last month and claims the doctor says he is sound as a dollar. (I'm sure he never mentioned his wetting to the doctor.)

He works hard, is good to the kids, and I love him, but I can't face the neighbors knowing how they must talk about his walking around soaked. I'm losing all respect for him. Please help me.

HIS WIFE IN BOSTON

DEAR WIFE: He's "sound as a dollar" all right—which at the moment isn't very sound. Your husband should see a urologist, and it's imperative that the doctor be informed about his problem. It could be a symptom of something serious, which, if caught early could be remedied.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been divorced for two years, and I have custody of our two children. Occasionally he has them for a weekend.

My "ex" recently married a widow with three children. (I am still single.) Last weekend my children were with their father, and upon returning home they told me that Daddy had a photographer take a picture of him, his new wife, and all the children (his and hers)—for his Christmas card!

Abby, does he have the right to use a picture of my children on a Christmas card with his new wife and her children? Recipients of the card will naturally assume that my children are living with their father, and perhaps wonder if I am an unfit mother.

Should I threaten him with court action if he uses that picture on his Christmas card?

UPSET AND ANGRY

DEAR UPSET: Even though you are divorced, they are his children, too. Forget it. Your friends and family will know that the children are living with you. And who else matters?

DEAR ABBY: I'm another one who never thought I'd be writing to you, but here I am. I am a 21-year-old college senior. I am still a virgin and have vowed to God and myself that I will remain one until I married.

Last year I met Delores, the most wonderful girl in the world, and we became engaged. Here's the problem. We will not be married until next June, and Delores, who is also a virgin (or so she tells me), says she can't wait until next June for her first sexual experience. She says since we are going to be married anyway, what's the difference?

I am only human, and it is difficult for me to keep refusing her, but I feel that if I were to break my vow to God and myself, I would have a guilty conscience the rest of my life. Please help me.

GOD-Fearing

DEAR FEARING: If Delores can't wait, and you'd feel guilty jumping the gun, why wait until June to marry? Tie the knot immediately.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "POOR ED K. IN CHULA VISTA, CAL.": Why does Ethel insist on picking out your underwear? Could it be so in case you lose your pants (in the market, or at the track) you'll make a nice appearance?

New postal equipment obsolete

WASHINGTON (AP)—New letter sorting equipment being used by the Postal Service at Cincinnati is "becoming obsolete as it is being developed," according to a report by a House subcommittee staff.

The Cincinnati postal center was one of four surveyed by the subcommittee staff. The others were in Kearny and Secaucus, N. J., and Memphis, Tenn. At all places it found the Postal Service was not operating as it should.

At Cincinnati, the report said, the Postal Service still is experimenting with a letter sorting process which imprints a bar code on the letters during first sorting.

The code is then read by a scanner which sorts the mail to the first three digits of the Zip Code without human assistance.

The report said most of the equipment remains inoperable, making it "still a toy in the hands of the developers and the dreamers who are financing it."

"In other words, the equipment is becoming obsolete as it is being developed at a great cost to the Postal Service," the report said.

Hardy Asian alfalfa was introduced to Spain by the invading Moors. In the 16th century, Spanish goldseekers brought this variety with them to South America.

Wall Street elite staying in market

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Do you have the sinking feeling that everyone but you is bailing out of the stock market? Well, you're wrong. Your companions include some of the most esteemed, the most elite of Wall Street.

They are convinced that while an Oriental rug has been yanked from beneath the American economy it will soon land on its feet, still stepping forward.

The trouble for the market, it appears, is that some of these well-heeled investor intellects are throwing in more words than money, and this isn't the kind of a market that can be cajoled. It must be shown.

Nevertheless, for what it's worth — and right now that seems to be very little — a good many analysts and some investors are talking confidently.

The Consensus of Insiders has turned bullish. This is a forecasting system based on the market activities of insiders, such as officers and directors. It's latest signal is for an upturn within two to five weeks.

Just as bullish is Wright Bankers' Service, which guides the fortunes of many important bank trusts. John Wright, its analyst, is a bit chagrined by the current "extremism," but sticks to his forecast of an advance.

"We believe that the current stock market represents an unprecedented extreme of unreasoned pessimism and subjective evaluation," declares Wright. It will be "followed promptly by a sharp and sustained advance."

Some of the other forecasters are more selective in their bullishness, urging investors to seek special situations, stocks that might benefit from the oil cutback, overlooked stocks and the like.

Standard & Poor's publication, "The Outlook," foresees four groups of stocks as "particularly well situated." The groups: nuclear energy, offshore drilling, rail transportation and property-liability insurance.

The possibilities for nuclear energy and offshore drillers is obvious, by why insurers and railroads?

MACRAME DAY - THURSDAY

This is the first of a series of four group meetings planned so that homemakers with young children can attend. From 1:00 to 3:30 p.m. this Thursday, Mrs. Arthur Schlichter will be teaching the group how to do macrame at Grace United Methodist Church. Child care is included in the $2.00 registration fee for this session and the following three sessions on "Decorating on a Budget" (Jan. 31), "Home Beautification with Flowers and Shrubs" (April 4) and "Lightning Meals" (May 30). These sessions were planned with the help of Mrs. Wayne Clark, Mrs. Ron Warner, Mrs. Wayne Hidy, Mrs. Roger Thompson and Mrs. Steve Holbrook. Be sure and call a committee member or our office (335-1150) if you're interested in attending.

SELECTING TOYS

Choosing the right toy for a child gets harder every year for Santa's helpers. This is partly due to TV commercials which depict a toy as doing a marvelous array of things plus being very educational.

Toy selecting is hard, too, because toys are so varied and ingenious. Many are complex electronic marvels. Most are safe, but some have built-in dangers for small children; some are dangerous only in the hands of careless or irresponsible children.

Many toys which delight children are by-passed by relatives because the toys are labelled "educational". Actually, such toys are developed by people concerned with meeting the needs and interests of children at various ages. These toys aren't dull or hard to play with. Toys are for fun, but they are also a child's tool for learning.

Toys satisfy a need to explore, to be active, to investigate, to create, to manipulate. For the infant, they also serve the need to feel, to taste, to listen

During the program, Mrs. Linkhart painted a covered bridge scene in oils and answered many questions. Mrs. Jack Merriman was the lucky recipient of the painting.

The next meeting will be a Pledge Pin Ceremony at the home of Mrs. Clyde Cramer at 8 p.m. Dec. 5. The educational program will be on "Recycling and Pollution."

Spring wedding is planned

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bush of Wilmington announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Sandra, to James Clawson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Clawson of South Solon.

Miss Bush, a 1970 Wilmington High School graduate, is a senior at Denison University. She will complete her requirements for a Bachelor of Arts degree in Speech Science this December. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry M. Bush, former residents of this city, now of Wilmington.

Mr. Clawson graduated from Madison North High School in 1968 and attended Ohio State University. He graduated from Wilmington College in 1973 with a Bachelor of Science degree in Agriculture and is now farming at Jeffersonville.

The open church wedding will be at 2:30 p.m. March 16 at the Wilmington United Methodist Church.

MISS SANDRA BUSH

Wedding plans are complete

Miss Margaret Jean Wood has completed plans for her marriage to James Earl Sussell at an open church wedding at 7:30 p.m. Friday in the Good Hope United Methodist Church.

Miss Wood is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Edward Wood, 3105 Snow Hill Rd., and Mr. Russell is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. Earl Russell of Good Hope.

Rev. Russell will officiate for the wedding.

Miss Wood has asked her sister, Miss Brenda Wood, to be maid of honor, and Jack Jackson will serve as best man. Michael Smith and Richard Schumacher will seat the wedding guests.

A reception will be held in the church social room following the wedding. Hostesses will be Mrs. Patricia Helterbrant and Mrs. Rebecca Smith, sisters of the bride, Mrs. Virginia Wood, sister-in-law of the bride, and Miss Terri Russell, Mrs. Darlene Poole and Mrs. Sharon Schumacher, sisters of the prospective groom.

Cut bacon slices in half and wrap each half around a canned water chestnut; secure with toothpicks. Broil, turning once, until bacon is crisp. Serve with chutney sauce as a dip.

Frozen cut corn tastes particularly savory when it is cooked with chopped onion and green pepper.

Money Does Matter . . .

By Robert E. Harper

IT COULD BE A GOOD
IDEA FOR YOU, TOO!

Credit buying can be good for you — but, it must be wise buying!

Thoughtless use of credit just doesn't help anyone.

Be sure your income is large enough for you to be able to handle the monthly payments. And, remember these things:

1. Try to borrow money or buy on credit only for the large things you need.
2. Find out exactly how much the item will cost, including all financing charges.
3. Make as large a down payment as you can.
4. Pay the balance as quickly as you can.

Seven county grid stars land all-district berths

By MIKE FLYNN

Seven Fayette County football stars were named today to the Associated Press' All-Southeastern District teams, the first step to All-Ohio recognition.

Chuck Wilson, John Sanderson, Mark Johnson, Garth Cox and Greg McCune, of Washington C.H., were named to the Class AA all-district team and Miami Trace's John Woodrow and Jay Mossbarger landed berths on the Class AAA team.

WILSON WAS the running back of the year in the district and joined Sanderson, Johnson and Cox on the Class AA first team. McCune was a second team selection. Woodrow and Mossbarger were both first team picks.

The panel of Associated Press sportswriters and broadcasters selected only one team in Class AAA this year due to the scarcity of large schools in the district. There are only seven Class AAA teams in the Southeastern District.

Washington C.H. fared well in its first season in the Southeastern District with the five selections and head coach Maurice Pfeifer sharing the coach of the year honor. The Lions were formerly members of the Central District.

Cox and Johnson, both two-time All-South Central Ohio League picks, were named to the district defensive first team after sparking the Blue Lion defense to eight shutouts this year. Cox was named to a defensive tackle spot and Johnson was selected as a defensive back.

Cox, a 6-foot-5, 230-pound senior, was the SCOL's honorary offensive captain this season. The hard-working Cox also doubled as an offensive guard.

Johnson, a speedy 5-foot-7, 154-pound senior, was the Lions' team captain and was a mainspring on offense besides heading the team's defensive secondary. He holds the school record for pass interceptions during a season (6) and interceptions during a career with 16. On offense this year, Johnson grabbed 24 passes for 509 yards, gained 277 yards on 43 carries and placed third in the league with 74 points.

The Class AA offensive team was headed by Sanderson at offensive tackle. The 6-foot-4, 290-pound Sanderson was the SCOL's honorary defensive captain this year. McCune, a 6-foot-0, 195-pound senior, landed a second team berth as center. He was the all-league center this season.

MIAMI TRACE fared well by placing Woodrow and Mossbarger on the Class AAA defensive first team. Head coach Fred Zechman was the top coach in the district. Woodrow was the starting defensive tackle and Mossbarger a first team defensive end.

Woodrow, a 6-foot-5, 260-pound senior, landed All-SCOL honors this season after being an honorable mention pick a year ago. Woodrow had 25 individual tackles and 27 tackles behind the line of scrimmage this year. He also blocked three passes and caused four fumbles.

Besides being one of Miami Trace's defensive stalwarts, Mossbarger was an offensive mainspring. The 6-foot-0, 180-pound junior, who landed an All-SCOL first team berth at tight end, grabbed 23 passes for 252 yards and an average of 11.0. He scored 40 points and led the league in receptions, scoring and total offense for a tight end.

Doug Ford selected squad's top player

By DENNIS STAPLETON
Record-Herald Sports Editor

Monday night marked the annual football awards banquet at Miami Trace High School honoring the Panther football players, coaches, managers, trainers and cheerleaders.

Featured as the main speaker was head football coach and athletic director at Wittenberg University, Dave Maurer.

After a bolstering introduction by president of the athletic boosters, Max Schlichter, Maurer transposed some very meaningful thoughts onto the 300 persons in attendance.

Speaking briefly of his outstanding football team this year at Wittenberg, (they went undefeated and host San Diego State Dec. 1 for a berth in the national championship for small colleges.) Maurer expounded upon the fun in competition and how winning isn't everything, but the preparation for winning is the most important thing in football.

The field general for the Wittenberg Tigers went on to say that there were three major ideas that must be brought forth to be a good football player.

First, Maurer said, "a player must have talent. Without talent a person can't play the game." Second, "a player must have the proper attitude. Competitive attitude is a must for an outstanding football player." Maurer stated, The third idea that the winning coach delivered was rules. "Rules are a must in football and all players must be willing to sacrifice, play by the rules and inflict self discipline to become a great player," Maurer said.

The already famous coach, after only five years as head coach at Wittenberg, said his winning formula was "pride, dedication, discipline plus love and respect for fellow teammates."

Following the stirring oratory by Maurer awards were passed out.

Cheerleaders from the freshman, reserve and varsity ranks were introduced and given their respective letters or pins.

The freshman football team which posted a 6-0-1 record was introduced by coaches Joe Henry and Sonny Walters. Each player received a letter for their fine performance this year.

All the varsity and reserve football players plus managers and trainers were presented with letters and or pins commemorating their involvement in the 1973 football team. Special awards were given to certain deserving players.

Receiving the honorary awards were Tom Hawk, for outstanding scholastic achievement; Jeff Long, most valuable offensive lineman; John Woodrow, most valuable defensive lineman; Greg Wieland, most valuable defensive back, and Doug Ford received the trophy for most valuable offensive back. High honors were also bestowed upon Ford as he was voted, by his teammates, the most valuable player for the year.

Pfeifer and Zechman top district coaches

Washington C.H.'s Maurice Pfeifer and Fred Zechman, of Miami Trace, were named the top head football coaches in the Southeastern Ohio District by a panel of Associated Press sportswriters and sportscasters.

Pfeifer, the steel-nerved architect of Washington C.H.'s historic football campaign, was one of three district head coaches honored in the Class AA division, while Zechman was the top Class AAA district mentor.

Bob Lutz, of Ironton, Ed Miller, of Wheelersburg, and Pfeifer shared the Class AA honor. All three coaches had identical 10-0 seasons.

PFEIFER, a 1959 graduate of Ohio Northern University, guided the Blue Lions to their winningest season ever and a coveted Associated Press Class AA high school championship. The perfect 10-0 season pumped Pfeifer's all-games record to a 54-31-5 level in nine years as the Lion boss.

The Lions, under Pfeifer's direction, captured their second South Central Ohio League title since 1955. The Lions also were SCOL champs in 1968 and then posted four straight second place finishes.

Zechman, a graduate of Capital University, conducted a highly successful rebuilding season in his first fall at Miami Trace as the Panthers registered a respectable 6-4 overall record and 4-2 mark inside the SCOL race.

Zechman, only the sixth head football coach in Miami Trace history, had been head coach at Western Reserve High School in Berlin Center two seasons and had also served as an assistant at East Liverpool and Franklin high schools.

Hiestand vacating legislative seat

State Rep. Joseph Hiestand (R-77th District) announced Monday that he will not seek re-election to the Ohio House of Representatives in the 1974 election.

Hiestand, a resident of Hillsboro, is serving his fifth term in the Ohio House and has been a member of the House Finance Committee for four of those terms.

"It has been a deep personal pleasure and honor for me to serve the constituents of the 77th District for the past nine years," Hiestand said.

He cited personal reasons for not seeking re-election. He added that he was announcing his decision at this time to assure that anyone who might want to run for the House seat would have the opportunity.

During his tenure, Hiestand has also served on the National Council of State Governments' Agriculture Committee, is currently chairing the Legislative Service Commission Study Committee on Ohio Penal Institutions and is a member of the Public Improvements Inspection Committee.

"I want to express my thanks to all of my friends who have supported me and helped me during my tenure as state representative," Hiestand concluded, adding that he was looking forward "to spending more time in the Hillsboro area."

Plane crash fatal to 3

SANDUSKY, Ohio (AP) — Three Huron, Ohio residents died Monday night when their plane crashed into a woods south of Sandusky.

The Erie County Sheriff's Department identified them as Theodore Murphy, 36, the pilot; his father, Paul, 67, and mother, Mildred, also 67.

A spokesman for the sheriff's department said the three were on their way home from a business meeting in Indiana.

The plane, a twin-engine Piper Apache, had its landing gear down and was apparently preparing to land, the spokesman said.

Controlling board releases funds

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Three Ohio legislators on the State Controlling Board voted against a minor Ohio State University request Monday, partly because of supposed opposition the school has to two new medical schools.

"We just fired a warning shot across Ohio State's bow," said Rep. Frederick N. Young, R-38 Dayton, after the board approved 4-3 an OSU request for $30,000 to begin plans for renovating Derby Hall.

Young, a member of the House Finance Committee, said Ohio State and University of Cincinnati officials had been trying to scuttle legislative-approved medical schools for southwestern and northeastern Ohio.

One of the schools is to be built at the Wright State University campus at Dayton. The other is planned for Portage County. Each will be operated by three area universities.

"We are serving notice that we will not permit it (OSU) or the University of Cincinnati to kill something we approved," Young said. "Let's hope they get the message."

The board released $3,256,000 to the

Trial is ordered despite 'uselessness'

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The First Ohio District Court of Appeals, in an unusual ruling, Monday ordered the Hamilton County Common Pleas Court to try a man after a judge had said it was pointless.

Hamilton County Prosecutor Simon Leis Jr. appealed the decision of Common Pleas Court Judge Gilbert Bettman. Bettman said there was no point in trying Sam Vincent Johnson, 22, for armed robbery on Oct. 12, 1972 since he was already serving a 23-year jail term.

Man given prison term for slaying

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — Norman Dakin, 34, Atlanta, Ga., was sentenced to 1-20 years in prison Monday after pleading guilty to first-degree manslaughter in the fatal shooting of a Middletown cafe owner.

Dakin, arrested in Houston, Texas, and returned here two months ago, was accused of killing John Duhamel in December, 1970.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The way Alan King sees it, "Comedy is the only art form that's never recognized its own." But he hopes to remedy this with an annual "Charlie" comedy awards show on television.

Although the Brooklyn-born comedian says the show won't be ready until January 1975, he's already trying to line up a blue-ribbon panel of comedy experts who'd nominate entries from all fields of mirth-making.

At the same time, he says, he's seeking permission from Charlie Chaplin to use Chaplin's name on the show's proposed "Charlie" awards, gold statuettes of Chaplin's "Little Tramp" character which would be awarded all winners on the show.

"I can't think of anybody in the world whose name is more synonymous with comedy than Charlie Chaplin," King said.

He emphasized that the awards wouldn't be restricted to television comedy but would encompass other fields of humor — the stage, books, movies, cartoons and even the rascals known as columnists.

"Let's say there'd be one for the best comedy writing for a newspaper," he said. "It'd cover the Art Buchwalds, the Russell Bakers, but also include local writers."

"You know, there are about 100 guys around the country who write some very funny stuff for newspapers and nobody knows about them," he said, perhaps getting himself 100 votes right on the spot.

King said he doesn't want too many categories of humor on the show. "That'd be a bore," he said. "What we'll probably do is sit down and start with 20, then narrow it down even further."

He said his proposed blue-ribbon panel would be made up of leading figures in humor — performers, playwrights, jokesmiths and the like — who'd serve on what he called a "National Comedy Board."

They'd meet and nominate five entries in each category of humor, abstaining from the voting in categories in which their efforts are included, he said.

After that, King said, final voting on the nominees would be done by the 1,300 critics, television reviewers and entertainment editors he estimated work on newspapers in the United States.

Sale of Long Johns rising in Michigan

JACKSON, Mich. (AP) — Long underwear, flannel shirts, tin stoves, and firewood are hot items in this south central Michigan community. Sales have apparently been stimulated by talk of an energy crisis.

Sales of long Johns are running at three times the rate of previous years, according to John McCully of Miller's Clothing Store. Flannel shirts and other heavy-duty clothing also are in great demand, he says.

Deaths from abortion show drop in Britain

LONDON (AP) — The annual death rate from abortions in Britain has dropped by half since the operation was legalized five years ago.

And the number of back street abortionists prosecuted fell from 75 in 1968 to 34 last year.

The Abortion Law Reform Assn. said in its annual review that the figures prove business is bad for the illegal operators.

The number of girls under 16 having abortions has held steady through the five years, the report said. Last year 3,141 of them had legal abortions, 2 per cent of the total.

Opening lead - five of hearts.

Cards invariably tell a story. The difficult part is, first, to realize that there is a story and, second, to know how to put the information to gainful use.

Here is a typical problem of defense. West led a heart, won by East with the king, after which East returned the eight, West taking declarer's queen with the ace. A heart continuation went to South's jack.

Declarer played a diamond to the queen, East taking the ace, and that was the end of the hand. South won the rest of the tricks to make four notrump.

The contract should have been defeated — and West was the player at fault. He should have known the exact heart distribution in the unseen hands, and he should have permitted South to win the second trick with the queen in order to maintain a communication link with East in hearts. Had West ducked the queen, three notrump inevitably would have failed. Declarer would have lost four hearts and a diamond.

West can tell from East's return of the eight, his highest heart, that declarer started with precisely the Q-J-6 of hearts. It is true that in theory South could also have had the four, but in practice he could not, for then he would surely have played it at trick two, taking advantage of dummy's holding of the ten.

Once West reaches this conclusion, it becomes obvious that his best bet is to duck the queen and hope his partner will gain the lead before South can run nine tricks. In the actual hand, virtue is rewarded and West's duck renders declarer's task hopeless.

Fear Their Son's Scuba Diving

Our son had repeated ear infections when he was a small boy. He is now 17 and wants to take a course in scuba diving. We are dead set against it and obviously are making him unhappy.

It would be very helpful if you could substantiate our feelings.

Mr. and Mrs. E.B., Ga.
Dear Mr. and Mrs. B.:

I would be doing your son a great injustice if I corroborated your attitude without a complete evaluation of his present middle ear condition.

Many scuba divers have had a history of ear infections in their early years.

If there is no perforation of the eardrum, no chronic discharge from the ear and no other evidence of persistent infection, there is no reason to deprive your son of the enjoyment of this exciting sport.

All scuba diving schools insist on a complete examination of the hearing mechanism, the condition of the sinuses and the heart and lungs before accepting a student.

Such a thorough study can be made by your doctor. If it is negative, then by all means let your son pursue his desire to learn scuba diving.

In Focus

by
Charlie Pensyl

Have you noticed that Kodak is now shipping their 35mm films in a gray plastic container with a black press-on top? The old screw-top metal can was getting to be a problem since the metal was so thin and weak it furnished little protection. With this new container the moisture-vapor protection is equal to or better than it was, and the physical protection is much superior. The textured surface of the exterior of the can takes a china-marking pencil for identification of the film rolls or for the thousand-and-one uses to which our photo friends put these cans.

One of the things that surprises me most about the little Pocket Instamatic cameras is the quality of the slides they produce. Normally these slides are returned from the Kodak Processing Laboratory in 30x30 plastic mounts, but if you wish to use them in your regular 2x2 inch slide projector you just tell us when you bring the film in for processing that you want your slides mounted in 2x2 cardboard mounts. Simple? Just don't sell your Pocket Instamatic short — it will make wonderful slides.

One other thing: we now have Kodacolor II in 126 size, both 12- and 20 exposure rolls. You'll like it much better than the old Kodacolor X.

The key to safety in this and other sports is proper training and proper conditioning. This, coupled with excellent equipment, almost always insures safety.

I have been taking the contraceptive pill for a number of years and have had no side effects.

I heard that it is imperative for people on the pill to take special vitamin and mineral supplements as an added precaution.

Is this true?

Dear Mrs. A.:

The extensive advertising campaign to promote vitamin and mineral supplements exclusively designed for women taking the contraceptive pill has served only to cause further anxiety.

There is no validity to the highly touted promotional campaign that oral contraceptives induce a need for specialized vitamins and minerals.

Any simple and inexpensive combination of vitamins and minerals, not necessarily an expensive "special" pill, is adequate.

All women who eat a well-balanced, nourishing diet that includes milk, whole grain and enriched cereals, vegetables, uncooked fruits, meats or fish or cheese, usually maintain their vitamin and mineral (including iron) needs.

Speaking of your health... Slouching in a poor position in a soft chair for long periods of time can be injurious to the lower back. The additional unrelated habit of cradling the telephone in the neck is a common cause of neck and shoulder disorders.

TA-WAN-KA-YA-STAN

Flooded creeks threaten roads

Rising water, caused by more than three inches of rain since last Saturday, threatened a number of Fayette County highways Tuesday, and the prospect of more heavy showers today and Wednesday is giving concern to state and county road crews.

County Engineer Charles P. Wagner said that some roads in the Rattlesnake Creek valley, particularly in Jasper Township, are covered by several inches of water but that traffic is being maintained. Stuckey Road, east of Washington C.H., is covered with surface water but was still open at noon.

Paint Creek at Washington C.H. was barely within its banks at noon, but observers said it apparently was stationary at that time.

An official rainfall measurement of 3.01 inches had been recorded here between Saturday and 7 a.m. Tuesday.

Police report minor crashes

An alley accident involving cars driven by Harriet Baker, 39, of 337 Ely St. and Delisle W. Williams, 59, Leesburg, was reported to police Monday. It occurred in the alley next to the Bishop Printing Co.

Slight damage was done to the Baker auto.

Roger L. Shackelford, 1220 Columbus Ave., said the right rear fender of his car was dented sometime between 8:30 a.m. and 10:00 a.m. in the Fayette County Bank parking lot.

Major legislation on Council agenda

Seven pieces of legislation, five carrying emergency tags, will be considered by Washington C.H. City Council at its regular meeting at 7 p.m. Wednesday.

City Manager Dan Wolford said Council members will consider an ordinance authorizing the issuance of $1,000,000 in industrial development first mortgage revenue bonds for the purpose of acquiring real and personal property comprising an industrial facility located in Washington C.H. for lease and sale to Cor Tec, Inc., in order to promote industrial and economic

Vandalism, theft cases reported

The Sheriff's Department is investigating a number of vandalism and theft complaints filed within the past 48 hours.

A battery was stolen from a berm box, property of the county's Highway Department. The box was located on Cline Road at a construction site.

Thurman Bennett, Bloomingburg, reported that the front storm door was broken at his home.

Rocks were used by vandals to break seven windows in a vacant building owned by Ralph Hickman of 525 S. Main St. The building is located at 999 Armbrust Rd.

Burglars pried open the front door at Moore's Fruit Market, CCC-Highway-W, where a small amount of change was stolen.

Martha Magaline Keeton, 47, of Greenfield, was charged Monday by sheriffs deputies with dumping trash along Ohio 753 just north of Hukill Road.

Cable-cutters assisted a thief in removing a battery from a car owned by a Jeffersonville man and parked on Ohio 41. Lee Wilcox, the owner, believes the theft occurred between 4:30 p.m. Friday and 9 a.m. Monday.

AFS traveler club speaker

Members of the Washington C.H. Kiwanis Club learned about life in the South American country of Venezuela following their regular dinner meeting Monday night in the Lafayette Inn.

Keith Stimpert, a senior at Washington Senior High School, related his experiences this past summer in Venezuela. Keith, along with 11 other students from throughout the United States, was sent to Venezuela under the auspices of the American Field Service program.

Living with a family which spoke no English, the WSHS senior was entirely dependent upon two years of high school Spanish for communications during his stay. Keith's Venezuelan "family" lived in the small town of Tucupito in the Oronoco River delta.

He pointed out that there are only two classes of people in Venezuela, the poor and the affluent. Keith's family operated agricultural experimental farms and belonged to the latter class.

Stimpert told Kiwanians that the population of Venezuela is only 10 million and most reside at the northern edge of the country. He said when political candidates seek office they identify themselves to the people by a particular color because of the high illiteracy rate. At election time the people simply vote with the colored card of their choice. Fourteen major political parties exist in Venezuela, including the Communist party, Stimpert said.

Plans to conserve heating oil bared

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration has drawn up plans that could require homeowners who use heating oil to turn their thermostats down six degrees from where they were last year.

Other users of oil heat, including commercial and government buildings, could be forced to lower temperatures ten degrees or make equivalent fuel savings.

The plans are contained in the administration's proposal for rationing of heating oil, to be published today in the Federal Register.

A draft of the proposed regulations was obtained by The Associated Press and verified by administration sources.

The regulations also would guarantee certain high-priority users anywhere from 90 per cent of last year's fuel oil supply to 100 per cent of their needs this year.

Barring unforeseen complications, the regulations will take effect Jan. 1.

Under the plan, dealers would be legally required to impose the reductions upon the heating oil delivered to their customers. Purchasers would not need coupons to receive their rations.

The dealers would be required to calculate and distribute the correct amounts according to the formula set by the regulations.

Boys blamed for fatal derailment

WINDHAM, Ohio (AP)—Police say two small boys playing along the railroad tracks in the village of Windham were responsible for a freight train derailment which killed one man and caused damage estimated at more than $1 million.

Police said the two boys, aged 7 and 8, told their parents they opened the switch on an industrial siding in this Portage County village, causing the 27-car freight train derailment Thursday. The youngsters reportedly had seen an older boy rewarded a week earlier for locking the same switch for Erie Lackawanna railroad workers.

The two boys remained in the custody of their parents today while authorities considered what should be done.

The engineer, Raymond Wilcox, 39, of Meadville, Pa., died in the derailment, and another crewman, David Consider, 28, of Meadville, was injured seriously. Consider was listed in guarded condition Monday night at Robinson Memorial Hospital in Ravenna.

The parents brought the two boys in for a conference with investigators Saturday, police said.

Police were uncertain what action, if any, would be taken.

"What can you do with babies?" one official said. "We can't throw them in jail. There wasn't any malice intended. They'll probably get a good lecture, but I just don't know."

The FBI and railroad police also were investigating.

An Erie Lackawanna official said no decision has been made on whether charges will be filed.

Skyjackers make way to skeikdom

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Three Palestinian guerrillas forced a hijacked Dutch jumbo jet to set down briefly in the Persian Gulf sheikdom of Dubai today before resuming their erratic journey through the Middle East.

The hijackers had freed 244 passengers and eight stewardesses in Malta before ordering the craft to Dubai. After demanding fuel in that small country, they took off in the direction of Aden in South Yemen at the southern end of the Arabian Peninsula, the Dutch airline KLM reported.

The hijackers came to Dubai after Egypt, Lebanon, Kuwait, Saudi Arabia, Bahrain and Syria all refused to let them land in apparent disapproval of such extremist terrorist tactics.

They commandeered the plane Sunday night over Iraq and since then have forced it to fly around the eastern Mediterranean with stops in Syria, Cyprus, Libya, Malta and Dubai.

The hijackers apparently seized the plane in retaliation for what they claimed was a pro-Israeli policy of the Dutch government. The Netherlands officially disclaimed various forms of aid to Israel. According to unconfirmed reports in Amsterdam, the hijackers had radioed the Beirut flight tower that their demands had been met.

Aboard the plane with the hijackers when they flew out of Malta was A.W. Witholt, a vice president of KLM, and 9 or 10 crew members.

Sources reached in Dubai said the country's ruler, Sheikh Rashid Bin Said al-Maktum, first refused to give the plane permission to land. But the pilot told the airport that the plane was running out of fuel and the ruler relented and gave landing permission.

An Egyptian diplomat in Valletta, Malta, was to have joined Witholt and the KLM crew as a hostage on the trip to Dubai, but for an unexplained reason he did not board the plane when it took off.

Former Justice Whittaker dies

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Charles Evans Whittaker, whose desire to get away from the rigors of Kansas farm life led him to the law profession and eventually a seat on the U.S. Supreme Court, is dead at 72.

He entered St. Luke's hospital Nov. 21, and his death there on Monday was attributed to a "ruptured abdominal aneurism."

Whittaker was appointed to the high court in 1957 by another Kansan, President Dwight D. Eisenhower. He retired from the high court in 1962 because of physical exhaustion.

Whittaker was granted resigned status from the court in 1965, after his health had been restored.

Stock market's fast slide believed due to energy crisis

NEW YORK (AP) — Surrounded by what brokers describe as pervasive fears about the nation's energy outlook, the stock market continues to record some of its sharpest declines in recent history.

On Monday the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials fell 29.05 points to 824.95, its lowest level in two years. The singleday drop was the fifth sharpest on record, and followed other major drops of 24.24 points on Nov. 9 and 28.67 points on Nov. 19.

Midway through Monday's session, the Dow average was down more than 33 points. Had that held to the close, it would have exceeded all declines other than the Great Crash of 1929 and the day in 1962 when President John F. Kennedy and the steel industry had a confrontation over price increases.

However, brokers on the floor of the New York Stock Exchange said trading was orderly and calm. They said there was little excitement and no hysteria, adding that Monday's drop was nowhere near the percentage fall recorded in 1929.

"Years ago it would have been a panic with this sharp a drop," said George Gwaldo, for 40 years one of the exchange's supervisors on the floor. "Today it was just a regular selloff."

Volume was only moderately active at 19.83 million shares.

Since Oct. 26, when the market's recent slide began, analysts have attributed it mostly to oil shortages and energy fears.

Compounding energy fears Monday was the decision by the First National Bank of Chicago, the nation's 10th largest, to raise its prime rate to 9½ per cent from 9½ per cent.

Investors fear that energy shortages and high interest rates may contribute to a recession in 1974, brokers say.

'Blank' claimed due to error

Judge Sirica holds tapes under guard

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica is holding the subpoenaed White House tapes under guard, but he has given no indication whether he accepts an explanation for why 18 minutes of one of them is blank.

Rose Mary Woods, President Nixon's personal secretary, testified Monday that she thinks she accidentally pushed the wrong button on a recorder while she was listening to the tape of a June 20, 1972, meeting between the President and H. R. Haldeman.

Assistant special prosecutor Jill Volner told the court that all discussion of the Watergate break-in, which had occurred three days before, apparently took place during the 18-minute period, obliterated on the tape by a steady hum.

Miss Woods testified at a hearing called by Sirica to determine what had happened to the tapes of the meeting between the President and Haldeman, then White House chief of staff.

She said she had spent long hours at Camp David, the President's Maryland mountain retreat, on the weekend of Sept. 29 and 30, transcribing subpoenaed tapes.

"I did work hard over that whole long weekend ... I was exhausted," she said.

On Monday, Oct. 1, she was back in her office in the White House, where she had several hours more work to do on the tapes plus other matters that had piled up over the weekend.

She said she was working on the June 20 tape when her telephone rang. She said she had to reach way behind her to answer it and when she did she "pushed the record button, obviously," rather than the stop button, which was right next to it on the machine.

In addition, Miss Woods said she would have had to have kept her foot on the pedal which enabled her to move the tape backward or forward while she transcribed it.

"After I turned from the telephone — being someone who has tried to do a good job — I almost panicked," she said when she realized that the record button was depressed.

She checked the tape and found that after a mention by Haldeman of Ely, Nev., where Mrs. Nixon was born, conversation was obliterated by what she called a shrill noise.

Within five minutes Miss Woods went to the President.

"I told the President I was afraid I had caused a gap and he said it was no problem because it was not a subpoenaed tape," she testified.

One of the nine tapes subpoenaed on July 23, by then-special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox, was of a meeting between 10:30 a.m. and noon on June 20, involving the President, Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman, the domestic affairs adviser.

But in an analysis accompanying the tapes delivered to Sirica Monday, the White House said there was no such meeting. The White House said the President met with Ehrlichman and then with Haldeman, not with both together.

In other Watergate-related developments:

—The Senate Watergate committee arranged to vote on whether to suspend

its public hearings indefinitely. Chief counsel Samuel Dash said investigators needed more time to explore new leads, but a source close to the panel's Republican minority said

Dash's staff had run out of hard evidence.

Nixon to publish some tax returns

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has promised six senators to open some of his federal income tax returns to public review this week, says Sen. J. Bennett Johnston Jr.

The Louisiana Democrat said Nixon disclosed his intention at a meeting Monday night with four Democratic and two Republican senators, including Johnston.

A White House spokesman confirmed that Nixon mentioned the subject during the session, and said he will "have something to say about it in the coming days."

No president has ever made such a disclosure and Johnston said Nixon expressed the hope his move would not set precedents.

Johnston said the President indicated he would provide copies of his actual returns and not a summary. "He said these would vindicate his position," Johnston said.

In a news conference with The Associated Press Managing Editors Association on Nov. 17 the President acknowledged the truth of reports that he paid "nominal amounts" in federal taxes in 1970 and 1971 because he had claimed a $500,000 tax exemption on the donation of his vice presidential papers to the government.

Johnston said the President did not say which years would be covered by his disclosure or how or precisely when that disclosure would be made.

Johnston, and Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., and William B. Saxbe, R-Ohio, said the discussion was friendly and dwelt mainly on such issues as the Middle East and the energy crisis, with a smaller amount of time devoted to the Watergate scandals.

"We talked about football for what I thought was an inordinately long period of time," Johnston said.

But he said he believed that the fact that the President was willing to discuss Watergate but instead was

Senate schedules vote today on Gerald Ford nomination

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate is close to a vote on President Nixon's nomination of House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford as vice president.

A roll call vote was set for late afternoon, with only one senator having announced he would vote against confirmation of the veteran Michigan congressman.

Ford was nominated by President Nixon Oct. 12 to replace Spiro T. Agnew, who resigned after pleading no contest to a charge of income tax evasion.

The nomination was the first under the 25th Amendment adopted in 1967. It provides that if the office of vice president becomes vacant, a successor shall be nominated by the president subject to confirmation by majority vote of the Senate and the House.

The House is expected to vote on Ford's nomination late next week. Its Judiciary Committee completed six days of hearings Monday.

The only senator to announce he would vote against confirmation was William D. Hathaway, D-Maine, who said his stand should not be interpreted as any reflection on Ford's character or qualifications.

Hathaway told the Senate that with Nixon undergoing an impeachment investigation, consideration of any nominee for vice president is improper.

Chairman Howard W. Cannon, D-Nev., of the Senate Rules Committee, which conducted hearings on the nomination, said it found no bar to Ford's confirmation after putting him "under the microscope of public scrutiny."

At a news conference Monday night in Hauppauge, N.Y., before a dinner speech, Ford said he was "very definitely ruling myself out as a presidential candidate ... in '76 and certainly for any time thereafter." He said that represented his present thinking and "I can't speculate beyond saying what my present intention is."

Community banquet to salute 'No. 1' Blue Lions

JIMMY CRUM

A community appreciation banquet, designed to salute the 1973 Washington C.H. Blue Lions football team, will be held at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 12, in the Mahan Building on the Fairground.

The special banquet, sponsored by the Washington C.H. Blue Lion football boosters club, promises to be unusually appealing for sports fans as the Rev. Father Richard J. Connelly, pastor of St. Colman's Catholic Church in Washington C.H. and a nationally-known speaker, will serve as toastmaster, and Jimmy Crum, WLWC TV-4 sports director, will be the featured speaker. The public is invited.

A donation of $6 per person will be asked and the ticket agents will be announced by the booster club on Wednesday.

TWO BANQUETS have been scheduled to honor the historic Washington C.H. football team. The appreciation banquet shouldn't be confused with the regular Washington C.H. football banquet which will be held Tuesday, Dec. 4 at Washington Senior High School.

Along with all this fanfare, the boosters are asking merchants in downtown Washington C.H. to recognize the week of Dec. 5-12 as "Blue Lion Week" through window displays or other tokens of appreciation. Washington C.H. City Council officially will designate Dec. 5-12 as "Blue Lion Week" at its next regular meeting.

Father Connelly and Crum will spice the banquet program, but the highlight will be the salute to members of the Washington C.H. football team. The Lions became the winningest team in Washington C.H.'s history with a perfect 10-0 record, captured a mythical Class AA state football championship in balloting by a panel of Associated Press sportswriters and broadcasters, and won the South Central Ohio League title, the school's first since the 1968 season.

BOTH Father Connelly and Crum are veritable fountains of sports background and statistics.

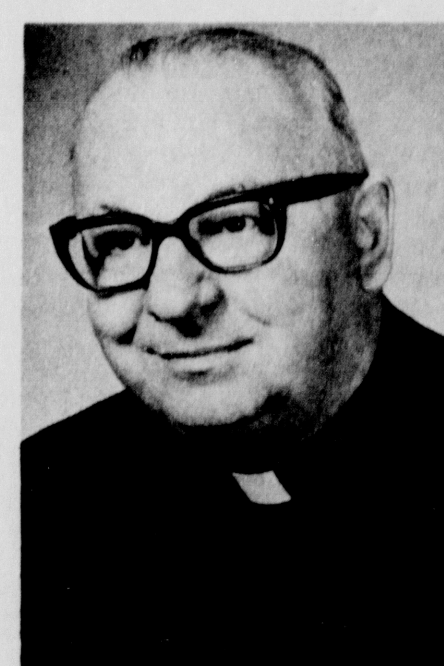

The amiable Father Connelly, pastor of St. Colman's for the past 21 years, is chaplain of the Cincinnati Bengals. He is one of the most popular after-dinner speakers hereabouts and has appeared at gatherings from coast to coast, frequently as national chaplain of both the Elks Lodge and American Legion. Always generous with his time, there are few organizations here he has not addressed.

His interest in civic affairs always has been deep, but he carefully avoids active participation.

Crum, who joined WLWC-TV in 1953, has been active in covering a variety of outdoor sporting activities aside from covering organized team events. For 14 consecutive seasons, he has called the play-by-play of the Ohio State basketball games on TV-4, and his coverage of Ohio high school basketball tournaments is carried on a statewide network.

The "TV-4 Sports Fund for Recreation Unlimited" was initiated by Crum in 1965 and in nine years has raised more than $120,000 to send physically handicapped and mentally retarded youngsters to summer camps.

A popular emcee for community and sporting events outside TV-4, Crum is part of the play-by-play team for the Cincinnati Bengals radio network and is seen weeknights on TV-4's newscasts.

United cuts 100 flights

WASHINGTON (AP) — United Air Lines announced today it is eliminating more than 100 flights in January and laying off at least 950 employes immediately because of the fuel shortage.

The cutbacks will put United about 5.5 per cent below its 1972 fuel usage level, United President Edward E. Carlson said. But, he said, the cutbacks are not enough to meet the new fuel allocation levels announced by President Nixon Sunday night.

Under the program announced by Nixon, all airlines must cut back their fuel usage by 15 per cent.

Carlson said United had not yet decided what flights would be eliminated. He said the figure of 100 flights was arrived at by determining how much aircraft flying time would have to be eliminated in order to get below 1972 fuel levels.

Albert Corsi named to resources position

Swank raps food reserve push

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — People who want to build a food reserve in this country are more concerned about rising prices than the possibility of a food shortage, delegates to the annual Ohio Farm Bureau meeting were told today.

C. William Swank, the organization's executive vice president, said efforts to build a food reserve "can only be market depressing and can only comfort an imaginary fear."

He said Americans never have been hungry and never will be "if they will only spend some of their earnings for food.

"A cheap food policy has never been an American right and should never become one," Swank declared.

Swank spoke at the opening session on the second day of the three-day convention.

Other speakers scheduled today included Ohio Senate President Pro Tem Theodore M. Gray, House Speaker A.G. Lancione and Lance Marston, di-

Schultz urges U.S. oil 'independence'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Treasury George P. Shultz says the United States will be better off if it plans its energy policy on the assumption it will never again receive oil from the Arab countries.

Although Arab oil would help in meeting both present and future energy needs, the United States can and should learn to get along without it, Shultz said.

"We have to have a program geared in the long run so others won't have us by the throat," he told reporters Monday. "If we don't take a lesson from this ... we're just crazy."

Shultz said the United States can avoid major economic damage if it diverts the energy shortage toward nonessential uses.

He indicated there probably would be some increased unemployment as a result of the energy shortages, but said private forecasts of an 8 per cent unemployment rate were too high.

He also indicated he felt the stock market, which declined 29 points Monday, was overreacting, saying it "seems to have gone wild on the subject."

Shultz said he didn't have any

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)— Nine charges have been filed against a Holmes County man in connection with the shooting and wounding of two North Royalton policemen following a chase last Friday night.

North Royalton police said charges filed Monday against Daniel Feltrin, 24, of Killbuck ranged from shooting with intent to kill to carrying a concealed weapon.

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — Greece's new military junta has given no clue to its plans for ex-President George Papadopoulos.

Since it overthrew the leader of the 1967 military coup on Sunday, the junta has not mentioned his name in its communiques.

Papadopoulos was put under house arrest at the seaside villa 20 miles from Athens that he rents from Aristotle Onassis. Troops with armored personnel carriers are guarding the village.

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Skylab 3's astronauts are readying instruments aboard the orbiting laboratory for the first of some 50 earth resources studies covering many areas of the globe.

A major goal of a resources survey today on a pass extending from the Colorado Rockies to the Mississippi delta is to begin charting winter snow cover in the Rockies to determine how well a space study of this type can be used to assess water runoff in the spring.

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. (AP) — Flight controllers have made the last scheduled course change for Pioneer 10, opening the way for closeup color pictures of Jupiter and a sequence of delicate experiments probing the planet's mysterious nature.

By firing the spacecraft's small thrusters Monday, controllers at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Ames Research Center aligned the spacecraft for the best possible transmission of long-awaited closeup pictures of the giant planet, NASA spokesman Pete Waller said.

rector of the U.S. Interior Department's Office of Land Use and Water Planning.

On Wednesday, delegates will vote on 500 resolutions which will provide guidelines for the Farm Bureau during the coming year.

Swank told the delegates the federal government is holding discussions with leaders of other nations to determine their needs for American grain exports.

Swank said this was a "very positive step in the right direction," since it will permit American agriculture to plan accordingly.

Swank said passage of state Issue 1 by voters earlier this month was a "mandate to the legislature to pass the right kind of laws."

The constitutional amendment calls for appraising farmland for taxation on its use value rather than its potential value.

Gov. John Gilligan, addressing the convention Monday, said passage of the specific new proposals to recommend for easing the energy shortage, saying he was "not sounding off until I have a better view."

He has said in the past that allowing prices to rise would be one good way of reducing consumption, but he noted that Cost of Living Council Director John T. Dunlop is strongly opposed to this approach.

He said the administration has stepped up study of a proposed excess profits tax that would absorb windfall profits, that industries, such as the petroleum industry, might reap from the energy crisis. He said other proposals were under study as well.

Shultz returned Monday from what he called a productive meeting in Tours, France, of finance officials from West Germany, Great Britain, Japan, France and the United States to discuss world monetary reform.

He said the world energy crisis also was discussed but that there was no talk of a worldwide recession.

He said the United States made clear its opinion that the U.S. dollar was now properly valued in relation to other currencies.

Some stations say they will defy the Sunday closing appeal, however.

"I don't plan to close on Sundays," one Cincinnati station owner said. "I've got two stations and Nixon's hit me hard.

"I'm bitter. I'm in business to make money, and I plan to sell all the gas I'm allocated."

A Cleveland station owner said he won't close unless other stations close. Using parttime workers on Saturday night and Sunday means he can close earlier on other nights, he said.

But several stations said they already were closing early, and a ban on Sunday sales will relieve pressure on their limited supplies.

In Columbus, station owner Howard Johnson said he's been closing his station on Sundays for about a month "so I would have enough fuel to pump the other six days.

"I wouldn't be able to stay open seven days a week anyway," Johnson said.

Most station owners said the closing won't cut gasoline sales drastically, but shift it to Saturdays and Mondays.

But James V. Cresente, executive director of the Northern Ohio Petroleum Retailers Association, said the closing would help eliminate unnecessary driving.

"This plan is far better than having gasoline rationing," said Cresente, who operated a gas station during World War II rationing days. "Thirty years ago that plan was a mess and it would be even worse today because more drivers are on the road."

"We're in trouble if this doesn't work," said one Cincinnati-area station manager. "But I guess Nixon's got to try something.

"Rationing has to be the next step if this doesn't work," he said.

Harold Mechling, division manager for Standard Oil Co. of Ohio company-owned gas stations, said Sohio hasn't made a decision on whether to close its stations Sunday. But he said Sunday closings are "bound to" reduce consumption.

"People won't go anywhere where they can't make it there and back on one tank," he said.

Eisenhower letter still around?

WASHINGTON (AP) — A letter that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower reportedly wrote years ago to Gen. George C. Marshall seeking advice on a possible divorce from his wife Mamie may still exist, claims a former aide to the late President Harry S. Truman.

Retired Army Maj. Gen. Harry Vaughan, who was Truman's top White House military adviser, said that Truman sent the letter to Marshall for Marshall's private files and to keep it out of the hands of Eisenhower's political opponents.

Vaughan denied a published account that Truman had destroyed both Eisenhower's letter and Marshall's reply.

Eisenhower, who at the time was World War II supreme allied comstitutional amendment and defeat of the income tax repeal proposal last year "helped show the politicians that the people are perfectly capable of understanding what fair taxation really is."

The governor said the efforts of farmers and the 59,000-member Farm Bureau have helped to begin to make state government "respond again to the real needs and desires of the people."

State Rep. George Tablack, D-52 Campbell, told delegates Monday the House Ways and Means Committee will begin hearings this week on legislation resulting from passage of Issue 1.

He said a great deal of testimony will have to be heard before the measure can be passed.

State Sen. Michael Maloney, R-7 Cincinnati, said lawmakers will have to proceed with caution in order to guarantee that the final legislation is fair to the entire community. He said defining "farmland" could be a major problem.

Arabs agree to continue oil embargo

ALGIERS (AP) — Leaders at the Arab summit conference generally agree the oil weapon should continue to be used and should be expanded if necessary against countries supporting Israel, informants said today.

But the Arab oil exporters were asked to make special efforts to exempt France and other "friendly countries" from the bans and cutbacks.

The sources said the Arab oil states are expected to tighten the embargo against the United States and the Netherlands but to ease restrictions on Japan because of Tokyo's recent endorsement of the Arab call for Israeli withdrawal from all occupied territory.

The sources said the Arab leaders also are agreed in principle that peace talks with Israel should be held in three stages. The talks are expected to start next month in Geneva.

In the first stage only Egypt and Syria would take part on the Arab side and the only subject discussed would be Israel's withdrawal to positions held at the time of the first cease-fire, on Oct. 22.

After that issue is resolved, representatives of Jordan, Lebanon and the Palestinians would come to the conference table. If the participants in this second stage agreed on a comprehensive peace settlement, all or most of the other Arab states would join for a third round to endorse the settlement.

A source said that if this fails to bring peace, the Arabs will have a detailed, secret plan for another war, including a third front with a coalition of armies striking across the Jordan River.

Recommendations submitted to the Arab chiefs of state by their foreign ministers stressed that an acceptable settlement must include the "complete and total liberation of the territories occupied during the 1967 aggression."

Commissioners review office equipment bids

The Fayette County Board of Commissioners Tuesday morning reviewed bids submitted for the purchase of new office equipment for the Fayette County Sheriff's Department, but tabled action on the matter for further study.

A bid submitted by the Harry L. Morgan Co., of Columbus, totaling $1,128.83 was the lowest of the five bids reviewed by the board.

The specifications, prepared by Sheriff Donald L. Thompson for the new addition at the department, called for three desks, three swivel chairs, four single-arm chairs, two office-type benches and four filing cabinets.

Other bids submitted were Ohio Penal Institute, Columbus, $1,146; Watson Office Supply and Equipment, Washington C.H., $1,326; Wasserstrom Co., Columbus, $1,494.94, and Patton's Office Supplies, Washington C.H., $1,663.80.

Commissioners Monday afternoon reviewed profiles prepared by Fayette County Charles P. Wagner concerning the proposed improvement on the Persinger Ditch project.

Reconstruction and channelization of the Persinger Ditch, located on CCC Highway-W and affecting eight landowners, will cost $6,644.55, according to Wagner's estimates.

The board scheduled the final public hearing on the Persinger Ditch project for 10 a.m. Monday, Dec. 31 in the commissioners office. The project was petitioned by Dr. J.H. Persinger.

mander, reportedly informed Marshall that he was considering divorcing Mamie to marry Kay Summersby, a British woman assigned to drive him around London during the war.

"Gen. Eisenhower asked Gen. Marshall if he thought a divorce would hurt his military career," said Vaughan Monday in an interview. "Marshall told him it certainly would, and would be a very stupid thing to do."

Marshall at the time was Army chief of staff. He later became secretary of state. According to Vaughan, the Eisenhower Marshall letters wound up in Pentagon files. Marshall died in 1959.

Vaughan said when Eisenhower was running for the presidency in 1952, rumors of the letters leaked out. He said those supporting Sen. Robert A. Taft, Eisenhower's opponent for the GOP nomination, "wanted to get hold of the letters and have them published."

Vaughan said Truman, who was then president, interceded and returned the letters to Marshall. Vaughan said he could personally confirm that the letters existed because "I saw them."

The letters, said Vaughan, probably still exist among Marshall's other papers — possibly at the Marshall Research Library at the Virginia Military Institute in Lexington, Va.

The alleged exchange of letters was made public last week when newspapers published excerpts from "Plain Speaking," a new book about Truman by Merle Miller.

Stock prices down again

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market settled still lower today after its sharp downward movement Monday, amid what analysts described as continuing investor worries about the impact of the nation's energy problems on business and the economy.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was down 3.53 to 821.42. Advances and declines were close to even on the New York Stock Exchange.

The market made a brief attempt at a rally in early trading, but what moderate gains it managed had mostly evaporated by noon. Analysts said they saw little immediate chance for any strong upward swing.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index at noon was down 0.57 at 93.10, while the NYSE index was down .17 at 51.34.

Big Board prices included Howard Johnson, up 1/4 to 11 1/2; American Motors, up 3/4 to 8 3/4; CNA Financial, up 1/2 to 10 3/4; RCA, down 1/4 to 18 3/4; Sony, up 1/4 to 29 3/4; and Dow Chemical, up 3/4 to 49.

Frequent periods of showers and thundershowers appear on the weather horizon in Ohio for the next couple of days, before tapering off Wednesday.

The National Weather Service said the showers and thundershowers will be widespread over the entire state with locally heavy amounts at times.

Warm moist air off the Gulf of Mexico covers the entire state and afternoon readings are expected to reach record or near record temperatures. Upper 60 and 70s will be common in the southern counties and the 60s over the remainder of the state.

Readings tonight will lower into the 40s and 50s and climb into the 50s and some 60s on Wednesday as cooler air spread into Ohio.

Unseasonably warm temperatures were reported over most of the state Monday night and early Tuesday, readings ranging from the upper 40s in the extreme northwestern counties to the 50s and 60s elsewhere. A heavy blanket of clouds, some fog and a few showers and thundershowers were also reported.

There will be a chance of rain daily in Ohio Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Highs all three days will be in the 40s with lows in the upper 20s and 30s.

Thunderstorms pound nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Thunderstorms crackled across the South and parts of the Midwest today, and fog and drizzle dampened much of the midcontinent as unseasonable mildness persisted from the Plains to the Atlantic.

A tornado watch was in effect before dawn for the lower Mississippi Valley and parts of the South.

Severe thunderstorms with hail and damaging winds struck the region Monday afternoon and evening. At least 10 tornadoes were sighted in Mississippi and Alabama, and some injuries were reported. Homes, trailers and farm buildings were damaged extensively.

Thunderstorms erupted before dawn in Louisiana, Mississippi, eastern Arkansas, Tennessee, Kentucky and in southern Indiana and Ohio.

Fog and drizzle fanned out over the midcontinent from Missouri to Minnesota and eastward into the Great Lakes region and the eastern Ohio Valley. Other showers washed the Pacific Northwest, west Texas, northwestern Florida and areas along the north Atlantic Coast.

Snow sifted through the Rockies, and travel advisories were

Rural development outlays rise

WASHINGTON (AP) — "Since the October 1973 funding of the Rural Development Act of 1972," the Agriculture Department "is again able to sharply increase its support of local developmental efforts," says Asst. Agriculture Secretary William Erwin.

With a news release on Erwin's speech today to the National Conference on Rural Development in Des Moines, Iowa, the assistant secretary's office here provided a chart of past spending and estimates for the future.

The chart predicts substantial growth this year — almost 500 per cent in one case — in USDA rural development spending.

But, an Erwin aide conceded Monday, it probably will be Wednesday before officials know exactly how much money they will have to spend and where they will spend it. He said it depends on whether the White House budget office would give them today, as expected, their allotments for the fiscal year that began almost five months ago.

The act Erwin mentioned created his job, as it brought together USDA's rural development programs under one chief who also is responsible for coordinating all U.S. government efforts in the field.

It was signed into law in August 1972, "out of the budget cycle." The new programs it authorized were without funding in their own right until Congress approved appropriations for fiscal 1974.

Money was shifted from other agencies to operate Erwin's office; and in the 15 months of the act's existence, not a penny for the new programs has left Washington except for a oneweek leadership school, congressional critics charge.

It was mid-October before Congress passed appropriations for rural development and the other Agriculture Department programs and President Nixon signed the bill.

In turn, the department on Saturday will be three months overdue in presenting to Congress its statement of rural development goals.

Also, it has delayed publishing final revisions of regulations for the programs until it has the money in hand, and a Senate oversight hearing has been delayed until January because Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz has not been able to fit it into his schedule.

But, in his speech today, Erwin concentrated on the expansion this calendar year of traditional Farmers Home Administration loans and grants, the principal programs brought into the new structure by the 1972 act.

Teacher guidance needs are shown

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Salaries and benefits for teachers are a school's greatest single expense, but far too few school districts are willing to pay a little additional money to protect their investment, a citizens' committee said Monday.

The Commission on Public School Personnel Policies in Ohio said in its final report that districts need to invest time and money in professional guidance and training for teachers already employed.

"If we had deliberately set out to prepare teachers in the cheapest possible manner, we could not do it much cheaper than we are now doing," the commission said.

"And once we hire teachers, we assume they are self-sufficient and generally leave them to their own devices.

"Teachers not only need guidance as they start their careers, they need professional help as they are required to adjust to new demands placed upon them," the report said.

Since teachers' salaries and benefits take about 65 per cent of school tax money, neglect of teacher guidance and counseling borders on fiscal irresponsibility, the report said.

The ad hoc citizens' commission, which has studied Ohio schools for two years, issued a summary of findings which painted a picture of mediocrity

McCall eyes presidency

SALEM, Ore. (AP) — Oregon Gov. Tom McCall says he may launch a third party presidential bid in 1976 to showcase Oregon's progress in ecology, drug control and efficient government.

"The Oregon story ... is a catalyst for a third force capable of attracting 50 million independents and disgruntled Republicans and Democrats," said the 60-year-old Republican.

McCall completes his second term as governor next year, and he is barred by statute from seeking a third.

During McCall's administration, Oregon enacted the nation's first law requiring cash deposits on all beverage containers, as a means of reducing litter. The state was also the first to eliminate criminal penalties for possession of less than an ounce of marijuana. And early in his first term McCall effected a massive reorganization and consolidation of state government.

When McCall's son, Sam, underwent treatment for heroin addiction four years ago, father and son gave a full disclosure on network television in hopes other youngsters would benefit.

Bad law permits it

One of the reports President Nixon confirmed in his exchange at the Associated Press Managing Editors convention was that in 1970 and 1971 he paid only "nominal" income taxes. As had been revealed earlier, this was achieved by donating his vice presidential papers to the public and then taking deductions based on a valuation of more than half a million dollars.

This is not mentioned to place Mr. Nixon in an unfavorable light, but because the episode so dramatically calls attention to the general problem of tax inequities. One is reminded that a president at $200,000 a year, or a business executive with two or three times this annual income, may pay at a rate less than that for million of wage earners.

Those who do this are, for the most part, entirely within the law. And there, really, is the rub: it's not that millionaires are illegally evading taxes, but that they are able to use the law to avoid taxes on huge amounts of income. It is the inequities permitted by the law that understandably gall an increasing number of taxpayers. If Congress is really interested in being responsive to the popular will, it should change the law to prevent abuse of tax shelters.

A trenchant statement of this view was made before a congressional committee by Prof. Stanley S. Surrey of Harvard University. There must be reform, he said, "to restore fundamental morality to the tax system by ending the cynical, immoral way the tax game is played today by those with money and knowledgeable advisers."

The sanctimonious claim that "it's all perfectly legal" need not be accepted as the last word on the subject. If gross tax inequities are "perfectly legal," then the law clearly needs changing.

A WORD EDGEWISE . . . by John P. Roche

Nixon and impeachment

Confronted with a particularly esoteric doctrine, one of the Fathers of the Christian Church observed "Credo quia impossibile est" — "I believe because it is impossible."

I have just about reached the same conclusion with respect to President Nixon's adventures with Watergate, the tapes, the "Saturday Night Massacre," Spiro Agnew, the milk scandal, IT&T, the "great grain robbery" and other assorted matters.

This is not politics; it is a Marx Brothers movie where every time you open a broom closet out come a dozen people and an elephant.

If you simply add these up, the suspicion that Mr. Nixon was in it up to his ears is almost inescapable. There remains the nagging doubt: could anybody with his track record be so egregiously stupid?

AS WAS NOTED here months ago, Mr. Nixon's fall-back position from criminal involvement, i.e., obstruction of justice, was a plea of incompetence. That is, his answer to his critics had to be — in defense of his honor — "I knew nothing about what subordinates were doing in my name."

This is pretty lame and in my judgment adequate grounds for impeachment: the best evidence indicates that the authors of the Constitution considered stupidity ("maladministration" was Madison's word) a "High Crime and Misdemeanor."

In other words, you didn't have to catch the President stealing to impeach him: being a bum President was a perfectly adequate basis for action.

Yet the Marx Brothers character of the scenario somehow throws me off when it comes to evaluating Mr. Nixon's honesty in denying that he is a "crook." I tend to believe him: "Credo quia impossibile est."

And because my professional career is that of a historian, I have encountered a number of situations in which the "truth" seemed "impossible."

Take the Japanese decision to attack Pearl Harbor as a case in point. The Japanese in 1941 had a finely trained diplomatic apparatus with numerous authorities on the United States.

However, they made a total miscalculation.

The Japanese were determined to invade French Indochina, Malaya and the Dutch East Indies (now Indonesia). As they looked at their maps, they realized that the Philippines and the U.S. Pacific Fleet were ideally situated to hit their lines of communication. Their intelligence also reported that American officials had been working closely with the Australians, British and Dutch on contingency plans.

"If" — they reasoned — "we move southwest, Roosevelt will push a button on his desk and we will be hit on the flank."

Now a bright 16-year-old American in 1941 knew two things:

First, Congress could not have cared less about the fate of French, Dutch and British colonies in the Far East. If GDR had proposed war on this basis, he would have been lucky to get 100 votes.

Second, the last thing the President wanted was to get embroiled in the Pacific — he was busy trying to get us into a war with Nazi Germany and not doing very well at that either.

But the Japanese had no grasp of American political dynamics and soaked Pearl Harbor and the Philippines, getting FDR into a war he didn't want. And then Adolf Hitler, for no logical reason, declared war on the United States! Which got Roosevelt into the war he wanted.

LOOKED AT in retrospect, the whole business seems incredible. But that's the way it was.

Or consider for a moment that in June, 1944, the German intelligence had a full set of the plans for the invasion of Normandy in a Berlin safe.

As those who follow the late show will recall, James Mason — an Albanian valet to the British ambassador to Turkey in the film "Five Fingers" (it was made from a book of the same title) — fished them out of the ambassador's vault, photographed them, and sold them to the Germans.

The Nazis refused to accept "CICERO's" windfall: beginning logically they said, "Why would these plans be in Turkey?" Answer: "As a plant for us, to mislead our defenses."

So they laughed heartily at the naive British and reinforced the Pas de Calais region.

There was only one thing wrong. For reasons hidden in the archives of Allies intelligence, some old buddy had sent the ambassador the real McCoy! It sounds impossible, but it was true.

In short, I think Mr. Nixon is eminently impeachable for maladministration, but until I see a lot harder stuff than has come along to date I am reserving judgment on his personal integrity.

Tax returns boost credit

By DEAN SCHOTT

Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Many Ohio personal taxpayers will share in $21 million of savings on their 1973 state income tax returns.

The savings will represent the credit given to Ohioans filing joint returns. The credit will not apply to single returns.

Stan Spaulding, spokesman for the Ohio Department of Taxation, said the credit, like the graduated income tax, will be based on the ability to pay.

"If your taxable income for the year is $10,000 or less and your tax liability is $100, you will pay 20 per cent less," Spaulding said. "Your tax payment will then be $80."

He said the tax credit will be less for persons who make more. The credit for those with a taxable income between $10,000 and $20,000 will be 12 per cent. Over $20,000, the credit will be 5 per cent.

Spaulding said the 110th General Assembly approved the credit system to eliminate an inequity in the two-year-old state income tax.

In 1972, first year of the tax, a joint return was treated as if it were individual returns and received no tax break.

State law required that if a couple filed a joint federal return, they must file a joint state return. The same held true if they filed a single federal return. It had to be followed by a single state return.

Numerous persons filed state and federal court suits challenging the provisions. They contended that the state law discriminated against couples.

The courts never issued a definitive ruling. But state legislators felt voter pressure and passed tax credit legislation.

Spaulding said application of the tax credit on 1973 returns will mean a loss of $21 million in state revenues, but it will end up in the taxpayer's pocketbook. Total take for the 1973 tax is expected to reach $418 million.

He said the credit system is the only major change in the state income tax for 1973.

Taxpayers can look forward to another change in 1974. Voters in the Nov. 6 election approved a constitutional amendment lifting the 1912 limit of $3,000 in exemptions on the state tax.

The amendment will be effective in 1974 and will mean a savings of $2 million to taxpayers.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Wife's upset: Husband is 31, still wets himself

DEAR ABBY: I have never seen a problem like mine in your column. Would you believe my husband is 31 and he still wets himself? Not only in bed, but while he's awake.

Last evening, after supper he went next door to talk to a neighbor and have a few beers, and when he came home (about 9:30 p.m.) his pants were soaked! I asked him how that happened, and he said he didn't know. (He wasn't even embarrassed.)

He even denies that he wets himself. He can be sitting in the living room watching TV, and when he gets up, the chair is soaked. I have scrubbed that chair more times than I can count. Our mattress is ruined. I know it's the beer, but he won't admit it and he won't give it up.

He had a physical last month and claims the doctor says he is sound as a dollar. (I'm sure he never mentioned his wetting to the doctor.)

He works hard, is good to the kids, and I love him, but I can't face the neighbors knowing how they must talk about his walking around soaked. I'm losing all respect for him. Please help me.

HIS WIFE IN BOSTON

DEAR WIFE: He's "sound as a dollar" all right—which at the moment isn't very sound. Your husband should see a urologist, and it's imperative that the doctor be informed about his problem. It could be a symptom of something serious, which, if caught early could be remedied.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been divorced for two years, and I have custody of our two children. Occasionally he has them for a weekend.

My "ex" recently married a widow with three children. (I am still single.) Last weekend my children were with their father, and upon returning home they told me that Daddy had a photographer take a picture of him, his new wife, and all the children (his and hers)—for his Christmas card!

Abby, does he have the right to use a picture of my children on a Christmas card with his new wife and her children? Recipients of the card will naturally assume that my children are living with their father, and perhaps wonder if I am an unfit mother.

Should I threaten him with court action if he uses that picture on his Christmas card?

UPSET AND ANGRY

DEAR UPSET: Even though you are divorced, they are his children, too. Forget it. Your friends and family will know that the children are living with you. And who else matters?

DEAR ABBY: I'm another one who never thought I'd be writing to you, but here I am. I am a 21-year-old college senior. I am still a virgin and have vowed to God and myself that I will remain one until I married.

Last year I met Delores, the most wonderful girl in the world, and we became engaged. Here's the problem. We will not be married until next June, and Delores, who is also a virgin (or so she tells me), says she can't wait until next June for her first sexual experience. She says since we are going to be married anyway, what's the difference?

I am only human, and it is difficult for me to keep refusing her, but I feel that if I were to break my vow to God and myself, I would have a guilty conscience the rest of my life. Please help me.

GOD-FEARING

DEAR FEARING: If Delores can't wait, and you'd feel guilty jumping the gun, why wait until June to marry? Tie the knot immediately.

New postal equipment obsolete

WASHINGTON (AP)—New letter sorting equipment being used by the Postal Service at Cincinnati is "becoming obsolete as it is being developed," according to a report by a House subcommittee staff.

The Cincinnati postal center was one of four surveyed by the subcommittee staff. The others were in Kearny and Secaucus, N. J., and Memphis, Tenn. At all places it found the Postal Service was not operating as it should.

At Cincinnati, the report said, the Postal Service still is experimenting with a letter sorting process which imprints a bar code on the letters during first sorting.

The code is then read by a scanner which sorts the mail to the first three digits of the Zip Code without human assistance.

The report said most of the equipment remains inoperable, making it "still a toy in the hands of the developers and the dreamers who are financing it."

"In other words, the equipment is becoming obsolete as it is being developed at a great cost to the Postal Service," the report said.

Hardy Asian alfalfa was introduced to Spain by the invading Moors. In the 16th century, Spanish goldseekers brought this variety with them to South America.

Wall Street elite staying in market

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—Do you have the sinking feeling that everyone but you is bailing out of the stock market? Well, you're wrong. Your companions include some of the most esteemed, the most elite of Wall Street.

They are convinced that while an Oriental rug has been yanked from beneath the American economy it will soon land on its feet, still stepping forward.

The trouble for the market, it appears, is that some of these well-heeled investor intellects are throwing in more words than money, and this isn't the kind of a market that can be cajoled. It must be shown.

Nevertheless, for what it's worth — and right now that seems to be very little — a good many analysts and some investors are talking confidently.

The Consensus of Insiders has turned bullish. This is a forecasting system based on the market activities of insiders, such as officers and directors. Its latest signal is for an upturn within two to five weeks.

Just as bullish is Wright Bankers' Service, which guides the fortunes of many important bank trusts. John Wright, its analyst, is a bit chagrined by the current "extremism," but sticks to his forecast of an advance.

"We believe that the current stock market represents an unprecedented extreme of unreasoned pessimism and subjective evaluation," declares Wright. It will be "followed promptly by a sharp and sustained advance."

Some of the other forecasters are more selective in their bullishness, urging investors to seek special situations, stocks that might benefit from the oil cutback, overlooked stocks and the like.

Standard & Poor's publication, "The Outlook," foresees four groups of stocks as "particularly well situated." The groups: nuclear energy, offshore drilling, rail transportation and property-liability insurance.

The possibilities for nuclear energy and offshore drillers is obvious, by why insurers and railroads?

NOTICE TO TAXPAYERS

Notice is hereby given in compliance with section 5715.17, Ohio Revised Code that the tax returns of Fayette County, Ohio for the year of 1973 have been revised and the valuations completed are open for public inspection at the office of the County Auditor in the Court House, Washington C.H., Ohio.

Complaints against any valuation or assessment, except the valuations fixed and assessments made by the tax commissioners of Ohio will be heard by the County Board of Revision at its office in the Court House, Washington Court House, Ohio on and after January 1, 1974.

Complaints must be made in writing on blanks furnished by the County Auditor and filed in her office on or before the time limited for payment of taxes for the first half year or at anytime during which taxes are received by the County Treasurer, without penalty for the first half year.

"Property-liability insurers could well be paying out less in claims as auto speed limits are lowered," says S&P, adding that if industrial activity is cut there might be a concurrent decline in claims for payment.

As for the railroads, "They could logically become the transportation medium of choice over long distances because they can perform better than trucks on the basis of fuel economy per ton ..."

Sindlinger & Co., a consumer polling and market research firm, foresees a sharp improvement sometime in the next few months. It based its outlook on the attitude and financial condition of investors, as expressed in interviews.

In addition, it notes that certain roads will benefit from increased tonnage of coal shipments to replace oil and gas, and that some will benefit from having significant interests in oil and gas production.

MACRAME DAY - THURSDAY

This is the first of a series of four group meetings planned so that homemakers with young children can attend. From 1:00 to 3:30 p.m. this Thursday, Mrs. Arthur Schlichter will be teaching the group how to do macrame at Grace United Methodist Church. Child care is included in the $2.00 registration fee for this session and the following three sessions on "Decorating on a Budget" (Jan. 31), "Home Beautification with Flowers and Shrubs" (April 4) and "Lightning Meals" (May 30). These sessions were planned with the help of Mrs. Wayne Clark, Mrs. Ron Warner, Mrs. Wayne Hidy, Mrs. Roger Thompson and Mrs. Steve Holbrook. Be sure and call a committee member or our office (335-1150) if you're interested in attending.

SELECTING TOYS

Choosing the right toy for a child gets harder every year for Santa's helpers. This is partly due to TV commercials which depict a toy as doing a marvelous array of things plus being very educational.

Toy selecting is hard, too, because toys are so varied and ingenious. Many are complex electronic marvels. Most are safe, but some have built-in dangers for small children; some are dangerous only in the hands of careless or irresponsible children.

Many toys which delight children are by-passed by relatives because the toys are labelled "educational". Actually, such toys are developed by people concerned with meeting the needs and interests of children at various ages. These toys aren't dull or hard to play with. Toys are for fun, but they are also a child's tool for learning.

Toys satisfy a need to explore, to be active, to investigate, to create, to manipulate. For the infant, they also serve the need to feel, to taste, to listen — and to throw out of the crib!

Every child is different, has his own growth pattern, his own interests and needs. So a child's toys and play equipment need to be well balanced to aid his all-around development. He needs toys for active, physical play; some for constructive, creative play; some to manipulate; some to provide dramatic, imaginative, and imitative play. As he begins to play with other children, he needs toys, play equipment, or games to use in social play. Toys for infants and preschoolers must be safe, durable, and suitable. Here are some things to look for or avoid:

For the child in the "chewing-tasting" stage, avoid toys made of lead or colored with lead-based paints. If chewed on, these might cause serious illness. Dolls' eyes should be painted on or be a type that can't be chewed off and swallowed. Any toy small enough to be swallowed is dangerous for a child this age.

Avoid flammable toys or toys stuffed with flammable materials.

Avoid plastic toys with sharp edges or toys that will have sharp edges if broken. Non-brittle plastic is safer.

Remember a child has his own idea about how to use a toy — let a child alone as he explores a new toy. If he has to be taught how to play with it, he isn't ready for it.

Wedding plans are complete

Miss Margaret Jean Wood has completed plans for her marriage to James Earl Russell at an open church wedding at 7:30 p.m. Friday in the Good Hope United Methodist Church.

Miss Wood is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Edward Wood, 3105 Snow Hill Rd., and Mr. Russell is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. Earl Russell of Good Hope.

Rev. Russell will officiate for the wedding.

Miss Wood has asked her sister, Miss Brenda Wood, to be maid of honor, and Jack Jackson will serve as best man. Michael Smith and Richard Schumacher will seat the wedding guests.

Hostesses will be Mrs. Patricia Heltterbrant and Mrs. Rebecca Smith, sisters of the bride, Mrs. Virginia Wood, sister-in-law of the bride, and Miss Terri Russell, Mrs. Darlene Poole and Mrs. Sharon Schumacher, sisters of the prospective groom.

Cut bacon slices in half and wrap each half around a canned water chestnut; secure with toothpicks. Broil, turning once, until bacon is crisp. Serve with chutney sauce as a dip.

Money Does Matter . . .

By Robert E. Harper

IT COULD BE A GOOD
IDEA FOR YOU, TOO!

Credit buying can be good for you — but, it must be wise buying!

Thoughtless use of credit just doesn't help anyone.

Be sure your income is large enough for you to be able to handle the monthly payments. And, remember these things:

1. Try to borrow money or buy on credit only for the large things you need.
2. Find out exactly how much the item will cost, including all financing charges.
3. Make as large a down payment as you can.
4. Pay the balance as quickly as you can.

Doug Ford selected squad's top player

By DENNIS STAPLETON
Record-Herald Sports Editor

Monday night marked the annual football awards banquet at Miami Trace High School honoring the Panther football players, coaches, managers, trainers and cheerleaders.

Featured as the main speaker was head football coach and athletic director at Wittenberg University, Dave Maurer.

After a bolstering introduction by president of the athletic boosters, Max Schlichter, Maurer transposed some very meaningful thoughts onto the 300 persons in attendance.

Speaking briefly of his outstanding football team this year at Wittenberg, (they went undefeated and host San Diego State Dec. 1 for a berth in the national championship for small colleges.) Maurer expounded upon the fun in competition and how winning isn't everything, but the preparation for winning is the most important thing in football.

The field general for the Wittenberg Tigers went on to say that there were three major ideas that must be brought forth to be a good football player.

First, Maurer said, "a player must have talent. Without talent a person can't play the game." Second, "a player must have the proper attitude. Competitive attitude is a must for an outstanding football player." Maurer stated, The third idea that the winning coach delivered was rules. "Rules are a must in football and all players must

Pfeifer and Zechman top district coaches

Washington C.H.'s Maurice Pfeifer and Fred Zechman, of Miami Trace, were named the top head football coaches in the Southeastern Ohio District by a panel of Associated Press sportswriters and sportscasters.

Pfeifer, the steel-nerved architect of Washington C.H.'s historic football campaign, was one of three district head coaches honored in the Class AA division, while Zechman was the top Class AAA district mentor.

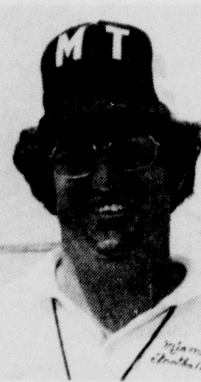

Bob Lutz, of Ironton, Ed Miller, of Wheelersburg, and Pfeifer shared the Class AA honor. All three coaches had identical 10-0 seasons.

PFEIFER, a 1959 graduate of Ohio Northern University, guided the Blue Lions to their winningest season ever and a coveted Associated Press Class AA high school championship. The perfect 10-0 season pumped Pfeifer's all-games record to a 54-31 level in nine years as the Lion boss.

The Lions, under Pfeifer's direction, captured their second South Central Ohio League title since 1955. The Lions also were SCOL champs in 1968 and then posted four straight second place finishes.

Zechman, a graduate of Capital University, conducted a highly successful rebuilding season in his first fall at Miami Trace as the Panthers registered a respectable 6-4 overall record and 4-2 mark inside the SCOL race.

Zechman, only the sixth head football coach in Miami Trace history, had been head coach at Western Reserve High School in Berlin Center two seasons and had also served as an assistant at East Liverpool and Franklin high schools.

'Bama atop college ratings

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Flattery is great, says Alabama Coach Paul "Bear" Bryant. But there is no substitute for results.

The Crimson Tide of Alabama replaced Ohio State as the nation's top-ranked college football team in this week's Associated Press poll.

"I'm highly flattered, of course, and I certainly hope we can prove deserving," Bryant said. "Right now, though, it doesn't mean a thing unless we can beat Auburn. The squad has worked hard to attain the No. 1 ranking and it's up to us to show we deserve it."

One man who didn't agree with the poll's results was Oklahoma Coach Barry Switzer, whose team finished second in the balloting.

Switzer thinks the Sooners — not Alabama, should be No. 1.

Ohio State's 10-10 tie with Ohio State realigned the poll results with Oklahoma, which had been third, moving up to No. 2, the Buckeyes dropping to third and Michigan maintaining fourth place.

Notre Dame and Penn State, like Alabama unbeaten and untied, remained fifth and sixth, respectively, and remained in contention for the national title, which will be decided following the bowl games on New Year's Day.

Alabama, which beat Louisiana State

21-7 last Thursday, received 36 first-place votes and 1,176 points from the nationwide panel of 63 AP member sports writers and sportscasters.

Oklahoma, which beat Nebraska 27-0 last Friday, garnered 20 first-place votes and 1,095 points. Ohio State collected two first-place ballots and 892 points while Michigan got one No. 1 vote and 876 points.

Notre Dame, a 48-15 Thanksgiving Day victory over Air Force, received two first-place votes and 832 votes while Penn State, which capped its regular 11-0 season with a 35-13 victory over Pitt, earned the remaining first-place vote and 726 points.

Southern Cal used a 23-13 victory over UCLA to climb from ninth to seventh place. LSU's loss to the Crimson Tide dropped the Tigers from seventh to eighth while Texas jumped from 11th to ninth with a 42-13 shellacking of Texas A&M.

Arizona State, a 55-19 winner over Arizona, moved up from 13th to 11th. Texas Tech was 12th, followed by Nebraska, Houston, Miami of Ohio, North Carolina State, Kansas, Maryland, Tennessee and Missouri. Maryland made its first appearance of the season in the Top Twenty after whipping Tulane 42-9.

Five WCH players picked

Seven county grid stars land all-district berths

By MIKE FLYNN

Seven Fayette County football stars were named today to the Associated Press' All-Southeastern District teams, the first step to All-Ohio recognition.

Chuck Wilson, John Sanderson, Mark Johnson, Garth Cox and Greg McCune, of Washington C.H., were named to the Class AA all-district team and Miami Trace's John Woodrow and Jay Mossbarger landed berths on the Class AAA team.

WILSON WAS the running back of the year in the district and joined Sanderson, Johnson and Cox on the Class AA first team. McCune was a second team selection. Woodrow and Mossbarger were both first team picks.

The panel of Associated Press sportswriters and broadcasters selected only one team in Class AAA this year due to the scarcity of large schools in the district. There are only seven Class AAA teams in the Southeastern District.

Washington C.H. fared well in its first season in the Southeastern District with the five selections and head coach Maurice Pfeifer sharing the coach of the year honor. The Lions were formerly members of the Central District.

Cox and Johnson, both two-time All-South Central Ohio League picks, were named to the district defensive first team after sparking the Blue Lion defense to eight shutouts this year. Cox was named to a defensive tackle spot and Johnson was selected as a defensive back.

Cox, a 6-foot-5, 230-pound senior, was the SCOL's honorary offensive captain this season. The hard-working Cox also doubled as an offensive guard.

Johnson, a speedy 5-foot-7, 154-pound senior, was the Lions' team captain and was a mainspring on offense besides heading the team's defensive secondary. He holds the school record for pass interceptions during a season (6) and interceptions during a career with 16. On offense this year, Johnson grabbed 24 passes for 509 yards, gained 277 yards on 43 carries and placed third in the league with 74 points.

The Class AA offensive team was headed by Sanderson at offensive tackle. The 6-foot-4, 290-pound Sanderson was the SCOL's honorary defensive captain this year. McCune, a 6-foot-0, 195-pound senior, landed a second team berth as center. He was the all-league center this season.

MIAMI TRACE fared well by placing Woodrow and Mossbarger on the Class AAA defensive first team. Head coach Fred Zechman was the top coach in the district. Woodrow was the starting defensive tackle and Mossbarger a first team defensive end.

Woodrow, a 6-foot-5, 260-pound senior, landed All-SCOL honors this season after being an honorable mention pick a year ago. Woodrow had 25 individual tackles and 27 tackles behind the line of scrimmage this year. He also blocked three passes and caused four fumbles.

Besides being one of Miami Trace's defensive stalwarts, Mossbarger was an offensive mainspring. The 6-foot-0, 180-pound junior, who landed an All-SCOL first team berth at tight end, grabbed 23 passes for 252 yards and an average of 11.0. He scored 40 points and led the league in receptions, scoring and total offense for a tight end.

It was the third consecutive year that Coach Joe Paterno's team has won the award for Division I teams and the 10th time since it was inaugurated in 1936.

Chuck Wilson named district's top back

Washington C.H.'s Chuck Wilson was named today as the running back of the year on the Associated Press' Class AA All-Southeastern Ohio District football team.

Wilson, a 6-foot-0, 185-pound senior, landed a first team berth on the Class AA all-district team selected by a panel of Associated Press sportswriters and sportscasters, and was the district's top running back after a record-shattering performance in Washington C.H.'s historic season.

The clever-stepping tailback ranks right behind Carl Smith as the all-time leading rusher and scorer in Washington C.H.'s history as he gained 3,173 yards and scored 356 points in three seasons.

WILSON, a two-time All-South Central Ohio League running back and a candidate for the Ohio High School North-South football game this summer, gained 1,537 yards in 237 carries this season for a 6.5 average. He was also the SCOL's top scorer two straight seasons and this fall scored 184 points on the basis of 29 touchdowns and five sets of extra points. The incredible 184-point total is believed to be the top scoring production in Ohio.

After his sophomore season when he gained only 184 yards and scored 50 points, the hard-running Wilson rushed

"Our defense still isn't playing well," Ryan said Monday night after the Whalers defeated the Jersey Knights 4-2 in the only professional hockey game scheduled.

Hiestand vacating legislative seat

State Rep. Joseph Hiestand (R-77th District) announced Monday that he will not seek re-election to the Ohio House of Representatives in the 1974 election.

Hiestand, a resident of Hillsboro, is serving his fifth term in the Ohio House and has been a member of the House Finance Committee for four of those terms.

"It has been a deep personal pleasure and honor for me to serve the constituents of the 77th District for the past nine years", Hiestand said.

He cited personal reasons for not seeking re-election. He added that he was announcing his decision at this time to assure that anyone who might want to run for the House seat would have the opportunity.

During his tenure, Hiestand has also served on the National Council of State Governments' Agriculture Committee, is currently chairing the Legislative Service Commission Study Committee on Ohio Penal Institutions and is a member of the Public Improvements Inspection Committee.

"I want to express my thanks to all of my friends who have supported me and helped me during my tenure as state representative," Hiestand concluded, adding that he was looking forward "to spending more time in the Hillsboro area."

Plane crash fatal to 3

SANDUSKY, Ohio (AP) — Three Huron, Ohio residents died Monday night when their plane crashed into a woods south of Sandusky.

The Erie County Sheriff's Department identified them as Theodore Murphy, 36, the pilot; his father, Paul, 67, and mother, Mildred, also 67.

A spokesman for the sheriff's department said the three were on their way home from a business meeting in Indiana.

The plane, a twin-engine Piper Apache, had its landing gear down and was apparently preparing to land, the spokesman said.

Controlling board releases funds

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Three Ohio legislators on the State Controlling Board voted against a minor Ohio State University request Monday, partly because of supposed opposition the school has to two new medical schools.

"We just fired a warning shot across Ohio State's bow," said Rep. Frederick N. Young, R-38 Dayton, after the board approved 4-3 an OSU request for $30,000 to begin plans for renovating Derby Hall.

Young, a member of the House Finance Committee, said Ohio State and University of Cincinnati officials had been trying to scuttle legislative-approved medical schools for southwestern and northeastern Ohio.

One of the schools is to be built at the Wright State University campus at Dayton. The other is planned for Portage County. Each will be operated by three area universities.

"We are serving notice that we will not permit it (OSU) or the University of Cincinnati to kill something we approved," Young said. "Let's hope they get the message."

The board released $3,256,000 to the

Trial is ordered despite 'uselessness'

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The First Ohio District Court of Appeals, in an unusual ruling, Monday ordered the Hamilton County Common Pleas Court to try a man after a judge had said it was pointless.

Hamilton County Prosecutor Simon Leis Jr. appealed the decision of Common Pleas Court Judge Gilbert Bettman. Bettman said there was no point in trying Sam Vincent Johnson, 22, for armed robbery on Oct. 12, 1972 since he was already serving a 23-year jail term.

Man given prison term for slaying

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — Norman Dakin, 34, Atlanta, Ga., was sentenced to 1-20 years in prison Monday after pleading guilty to first-degree manslaughter in the fatal shooting of a Middletown cafe owner.

Dakin, arrested in Houston, Texas, and returned here two months ago, was accused of killing John Duhamel in December, 1970.

Among other releases: —$650,399 to Miami University for four projects, including $296,799 for renovation of the basement area of Upham Hall.

—$2.7 million to the attorney general's office for law enforcement radio network supervised by the Bureau of Criminal Investigation and Identification and financed by federal revenue sharing funds.

—$405,000 to the Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation for rehabilitation work at Gallipolis State Institute.

—$2.1 million for additional salaries for the state's judiciary, approved by the legislature.

—$535,538 to Ohio University for a portion of its $3 million assessment for relocating the Hocking River as part of a flood control project.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The way Alan King sees it, "Comedy is the only art form that's never recognized its own." But he hopes to remedy this with an annual "Charlie" comedy awards show on television.

Although the Brooklyn-born comedian says the show won't be ready until January 1975, he's already trying to line up a blue-ribbon panel of comedy experts who'd nominate entries from all fields of mirth-making.

At the same time, he says, he's seeking permission from Charlie Chaplin to use Chaplin's name on the show's proposed "Charlie" awards, gold statuettes of Chaplin's "Little Tramp" character which would be awarded all winners on the show.

"I can't think of anybody in the world whose name is more synonymous with comedy than Charlie Chaplin," King said.

He emphasized that the awards wouldn't be restricted to television comedy but would encompass other fields of humor — the stage, books, movies, cartoons and even the rascals known as columnists.

"Let's say there'd be one for the best comedy writing for a newspaper," he said. "It'd cover the Art Buchwalds, the Russell Bakers, but also include local writers."

"You know, there are about 100 guys around the country who write some very funny stuff for newspapers and nobody knows about them," he said, perhaps getting himself 100 votes right on the spot.

King said he doesn't want too many categories of humor on the show. "That'd be a bore," he said. "What we'll probably do is sit down and start with 20, then narrow it down even further."

He said his proposed blue-ribbon panel would be made up of leading figures in humor — performers, playwrights, jokesmiths and the like — who'd serve on what he called a "National Comedy Board."

They'd meet and nominate five entries in each category of humor, abstaining from the voting in categories in which their efforts are included, he said.

After that, King said, final voting on the nominees would be done by the 1,300 critics, television reviewers and entertainment editors he estimated work on newspapers in the United States.

Sale of Long Johns rising in Michigan

JACKSON, Mich. (AP) — Long underwear, flannel shirts, tin stoves, and firewood are hot items in this south central Michigan community. Sales have apparently been stimulated by talk of an energy crisis.

Sales of long Johns are running at three times the rate of previous years, according to John McCully of Miller's Clothing Store. Flannel shirts and other heavy-duty clothing also are in great demand, he says.

The spokesman said the layoff will last one to two weeks.

Deaths from abortion show drop in Britain

LONDON (AP) — The annual death rate from abortions in Britain has dropped by half since the operation was legalized five years ago.

And the number of back street abortionists prosecuted fell from 75 in 1968 to 34 last year.

The Abortion Law Reform Assn. said in its annual review that the figures prove business is bad for the illegal operators.

The number of girls under 16 having abortions has held steady through the five years, the report said. Last year 3,141 of them had legal abortions, 2 per cent of the total.

Opening lead - five of hearts.

Cards invariably tell a story. The difficult part is, first, to realize that there is a story and, second, to know how to put the information to gainful use.

Here is a typical problem of defense. West led a heart, won by East with the king, after which East returned the eight, West taking declarer's queen with the ace. A heart continuation went to South's jack.

Declarer played a diamond to the queen, East taking the ace, and that was the end of the hand. South won the rest of the tricks to make four notrump.

The contract should have been defeated — and West was the player at fault. He should have known the exact heart distribution in the unseen hands, and he should have permitted South to win the second trick with the queen in order to maintain a communication link with East in hearts. Had West ducked the queen, three notrump inevitably would have failed. Declarer would have lost four hearts and a diamond.

West can tell from East's return of the eight, his highest heart, that declarer started with precisely the Q-J-6 of hearts. It is true that in theory South could also have had the four, but in practice he could not, for then he would surely have played it at trick two, taking advantage of dummy's holding of the ten.

Once West reaches this conclusion, it becomes obvious that his best bet is to duck the queen and hope his partner will gain the lead before South can run nine tricks. In the actual hand, virtue is rewarded and West's duck renders declarer's task hopeless.

Fear Their Son's Scuba Diving

Our son had repeated ear infections when he was a small boy. He is now 17 and wants to take a course in scuba diving. We are dead set against it and obviously are making him unhappy.

It would be very helpful if you would substantiate our feelings.

Mr. and Mrs. E.B., Ga.

Dear Mr. and Mrs. B.: I would be doing your son a great injustice if I corroborated your attitude without a complete evaluation of his present middle ear condition.

Many scuba divers have had a history of ear infections in their early years.

If there is no perforation of the eardrum, no chronic discharge from the ear and no other evidence of persistent infection, there is no reason to deprive your son of the enjoyment of this exciting sport.

All scuba diving schools insist on a complete examination of the hearing mechanism, the condition of the sinuses and the heart and lungs before accepting a student.

Such a thorough study can be made by your doctor. If it is negative, then by all means let your son pursue his desire to learn scuba diving.

In Focus

Have you noticed that Kodak is now shipping their 35mm films in a gray plastic container with a black press-on top? The old screw-top metal can was getting to be a problem since the metal was so thin and weak it furnished little protection. With this new container the moisture-vapor protection is equal to or better than it was, and the physical protection is much superior. The textured surface of the exterior of the can takes a china-marking pencil for identification of the film rolls or for the thousand-and-one uses to which our photo friends put these cans.

One of the things that surprises me most about the little Pocket Instamatic cameras is the quality of the slides they produce. Normally these slides are returned from the Kodak Processing Laboratory in 30x30 plastic mounts, but if you wish to use them in your regular 2x2 inch slide projector you just tell us when you bring the film in for processing that you want your slides mounted in 2x2 cardboard mounts. Simple? Just don't sell your Pocket Instamatic short — it will make wonderful slides.

One other thing: we now have Kodacolor II in 126 size, both 12- and 20 exposure rolls. You'll like it much better than the old Kodacolor X.

The key to safety in this and other sports is proper training and proper conditioning. This, coupled with excellent equipment, almost always insures safety.

I have been taking the contraceptive pill for a number of years and have had no side effects.

I heard that it is imperative for people on the pill to take special vitamin and mineral supplements as an added precaution.

Is this true?

Mrs. S.A., Minn.

Dear Mrs. A.: The extensive advertising campaign to promote vitamin and mineral supplements exclusively designed for women taking the contraceptive pill has served only to cause further anxiety.

There is no validity to the highly touted promotional campaign that oral contraceptives induce a need for specialized vitamins and minerals.

Any simple and inexpensive combination of vitamins and minerals, not necessarily an expensive "special" pill, is adequate.

All women who eat a well-balanced, nourishing diet that includes milk, whole grain and enriched cereals, vegetables, uncooked fruits, meats or fish or cheese, usually maintain their vitamin and mineral (including iron) needs.

Speaking of your health... Slouching in a poor position in a soft chair for long periods of time can be injurious to the lower back. The additional unrelated habit of cradling the telephone in the neck is a common cause of neck and shoulder disorders.
